Three choppers fired on in South Vietnam

By GEORGE ESPER
SAIGON (AP) — Three peacekeeping helicopters were fired at Sunday and today. One was hit and two were forced down, but no casualties were reported.

Meanwhile, the Saigon command reported more than 100 violations of the new cease-fire during each of the first two days it has been in effect. But it said that the number of incidents had dropped to 77 during the 24-hour period ending at dawn today.

In the latest chopper incident, a helicopter of the International Commission Control and Supervision came under small arms fire on a resupply mission to Pleiku in the central highlands. The helicopter landed safely at Pleiku.

Two peacekeeping helicopters carrying 23 persons were fired on Sunday over Communist-controlled territory near An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon. One of the aircraft was hit but both landed safely at An Loc with no casualties.

Canadian officials said the Viet Cong had given a written guarantee for the two helicopters to return from An Loc Tuesday to the regional peacekeeping headquarters at Bien Hoa, 15 miles northeast of Saigon.

The number of cease-fire violations being reported by the Saigon command appeared to be about the same as the average number prior to the time when the supposedly strengthened cease-fire went into effect at noon last Friday.

Meanwhile, the Saigon government said the Viet Cong must stop shooting before a political solution for South Vietnam can be achieved. It cited 289 communist violations of the new truce, and said the worst was the assassination of a deputy hamlet chief and eight members of his family in the Mekong Delta.

In Cambodia, where there is no cease-fire, delayed reports said an eighth U.S. aircraft has been lost there since the original Vietnam truce agreement was signed in Paris Jan. 27. Informants in Phnom Penh said the chopper crashed due to mechanical failure.

Different than 1959

Newsman to be kept away from Brezhnev

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legend has it that when Nikita Khrushchev visited the Iowa spread of Roswell Garst, the Coon Rapids farmer became so angry at the swarming hordes of reporters that he kicked one of them in the shins.

That is not likely to happen this week when Leonid Brezhnev, Khrushchev's successor as general secretary of the Soviet Union's communist party is President Nixon's guest in the United States. This time, if all goes according to plan, newsmen will not get close to Brezhnev at all.

The striking difference between the two tours stems from the striking differences between the two men, their itineraries and the U.S. of then and now.

Khrushchev was an unpredictable, moody man, easily offended and always ready to offend. Brezhnev, labeled for years as a technocrat, is a disciplined politician.

Khrushchev was "good copy" whatever he said or did and seemed to enjoy it. Brezhnev, it appears, has no such ambitions, although American Kremlinologists are not so sure after his recent visit to West Germany where he was photographed embracing Chancellor Willy Brandt in a classic Russian bear-hug.

The United States in 1959 was a country with little on its mind other than the upcoming visit of the world's top communist. The United States Brezhnev is visiting is preoccupied with Watergate, inflation and a host of trade and monetary questions.

When Khrushchev came, the visit was front-page news well before his arrival. Now, much to the annoyance of communist diplomats here, virtually nothing is in the papers. When a story does appear, the headline is more likely to read that Brezhnev "will not exploit Watergate," as it did recently on the front page of The Washington Post.

Khrushchev spent 12 days visiting Washington, New York, Los Angeles, San Francisco, the Garst farm, Pittsburgh and Camp David. Brezhnev will see only Washington and the two closely guarded presidential retreats at Camp David and San Clemente during his 10-day stay.

Nixon, Brezhnev agree to seek lasting peace

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev began historic summit talks today with joint pledges to work for lasting world peace.

As Nixon welcomed Brezhnev at colorful ceremonies on the White House south lawn, he said "all the world is watching" their week of summitry because "the people of the world know that if leaders of the two most powerful nations . . . can work together . . . the chance for a world of peace is infinitely increased."

In remarks exchange before Nixon ushered Brezhnev into his Oval Office to start their second summit in 13 months, the President said the "hopes of the world rest with us."

"I am confident," he added, that "we shall not disappoint those hopes."

Both leaders spoke of the foundation laid in last year's Moscow summit and in extensive exchanges since then in forecasting success for the talks.

Brezhnev said he was ready to work hard to "justify the hopes of our people and serve the interest of a peaceful future for all mankind."

"The results of our first meeting made a good and reliable foundation for peaceful relations between our two countries," Brezhnev said. "But even then we both took the view that building on that foundation we should move further ahead."

He referred to his "long journey from Moscow to Washington," then added:

"The distances between our two countries is shrinking not only because we travel aboard modern aircraft following a well-charted route but because we share one great goal which is to ensure a lasting peace for the peoples of our countries and to strengthen security on our planet."

Above all, Nixon voiced hope that the talks could make strides toward lifting the burden of arms from the world and "building a structure of peace."

Brezhnev's helicopter landed on the lawn south of the White House.

Rain and fog forced cancellation of plans for Brezhnev and his party to leave the Camp David presidential retreat in the Maryland mountains and the Western White House at San Clemente Calif., come against a backdrop of continuing domestic controversy over the Watergate scandal.

Jewish groups also have announced a series of demonstrations protesting Brezhnev's visit and Nixon's efforts to increase economic ties with the Soviet Union. Because of the threat of demonstrations tight security has been arranged for the Brezhnev visit.

A rally urging Brezhnev to permit free emigration of Soviet Jews to the West was held on the steps of the Capitol Sunday afternoon with police estimating the crowd at 10,000.

Members of the Young Americans for Freedom, a conservative group demonstrated outside of the office of the Soviet newspaper Pravda and Izvestia. They held a mock trial and hanging of Brezhnev.

The general secretary of the Soviet Communist Party arrived Saturday on his first visit ever to the United States and went immediately to Camp David about 75 miles northwest of Washington.

Concern grave

Attempt to reach submarine fails

By ROBERT COOPER
KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — A fourth attempt to rescue four men trapped in a mini research submarine on the floor of the Atlantic failed today. Officials expressed grave concern for the men's safety.

"We must get to that sub," said Lieutenant Commander R. H. Bisbing, a Navy spokesman. "We hope the men can survive."

The four—two of them reportedly unconscious in a rear compartment of the sub—were on their last emergency supply of oxygen and Bisbing said a new attempt to reach them could take several hours.

The air supply for the four had dwindled to about an hour at 11 a.m. EDT as divers worked feverishly to reach them with a diving bell. Two reportedly already were unconscious.

One of the unconscious men was Clayton Link, 31, son of the research sub's designer, Edwin Link.

Three previous attempts to reach the sub—two by hard-hat divers and one with a diving bell—had failed, stymied by the danger of entangling rescuers in the same wreckage that trapped the mini-sub.

The small submarine was wedged in the wreckage of a World War II destroyer about 20 miles southeast of Key West, home of one of the nation's oldest naval bases.

Cmdr. William McVeigh, chief of staff at the Key West base, said "nothing really has been accomplished" in initial rescue attempts "because of cables and debris" from the sunken destroyer.

McVeigh said the rescue vessel Tringa was maneuvering into position for another attempt to lower the bell chamber to the trapped minisub.

David Stover, 21, son of Albert Stover, said his father was trapped in the rear compartment of the sub with Link. "The last I heard he (Stover) was unconscious and that was about 8 a.m. today," Stover said.

In the front compartment of the experimental craft were Archibald "Jock" Menzies, a native of Scotland with a home in Vero Beach, Fla., the sub's pilot-commander; and Robert Meek, 27, a diver and submarine pilot from West Palm Beach, Fla.

Rescuers were faced with the prospect of having to draw on the vital oxygen supply to increase the temperature in the submarine and enable chemical canisters to absorb more carbon dioxide.

Asked about the buildup of carbon dioxide in the back section of the vessel, a Navy spokesman described it as "a baby putting a plastic bag over its head and slowly being strangled."

TO RESCUE . . . Jim Dudley, pilot of the Perry Submarine, sits on top of his vehicle and talks with John F. Manuel, vice president of the company that makes the mini-sub before leaving for a rescue attempt of a midget submarine which is caught 360 feet down in the Atlantic ocean. In Watergate conspiracy

Dean was 'Johnny-on-the-spot'

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
WASHINGTON (AP) — John W. Dean III was, by many accounts, the Johnny-on-the-spot of the Watergate conspiracy.

When the intelligence-gathering activities now labeled Watergate were planned, when the subsequent cover-up of the break-in was attempted, the White House counsel was there — the man at the center, according to federal prosecutors.

This week, Dean becomes Johnny-on-the-spotlight as he tells his story of the conspiracy and scandal to the Senate Watergate committee.

Leaked accounts of that story, told so far behind closed doors, indicate that 34-year-old Dean is the most likely witness to attempt to implicate President Nixon in the cover-up.

general counsel in late 1971, Dean "brought C. Gordon Liddy to my office."

Magruder said he and Dean and then-Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell had discussed intelligence-gathering previously and Liddy was to work in that field as well.

On Jan. 27, 1972, Magruder testified, he, Mitchell, Dean and Liddy met in Mitchell's Justice Department office and Liddy described a bizarre million-dollar plan to tap telephones, kidnap radicals and seduce Democratic officials.

A week later, Liddy was ready with a toned-down proposal based primarily on wiretapping and photography, so, Magruder said, he called Dean who set up another meeting in Mitchell's office.

H. R. Haldeman, former White House chief of staff, said Dean told him about the intelligence-planning meetings.

In a sworn deposition, Haldeman said that, after the second meeting, Dean told him Liddy had described an "incredible" proposal and "that he intended not to involve himself in any further meetings . . . regarding intelligence planning with Mr. Liddy."

Magruder described one more meeting at which specific actions were approved, and said Dean was absent.

But, two days after the June 17, 1972, break-in at Democratic national headquarters in the Watergate complex, Dean attended a meeting at Mitchell's apartment concerning "what were we going to do about the problem," Magruder said.

One aspect was explaining $230,000 which Liddy had received to pay for his intelligence-gathering activities, Magruder said.

The solution, Magruder said, was to lie: Authorities would be told Liddy received only $150,000 which was spent on legal projects in the intelligence field.

"My primary contacts on the story were Mr. Dean and Mr. Mitchell," Magruder said.

Magruder said he lied to FBI agents and, on Aug. 16, under oath to a grand jury.

Senators may query Dean for three days

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
WASHINGTON (AP) — John W. Dean III goes before the Senate Watergate committee in secret session today as the senators prepare to question the fired White House counsel in up to three days of televised public hearings.

The panel is expected to consider national-security questions and Dean's many conversations with President Nixon to determine how much the senators can bring out publicly. At issue is whether Dean's testimony might expose critical government secrets or violate the right of a client—Nixon—to speak with his attorney without fear of disclosure.

Some published accounts suggest that Dean, granted limited immunity by the Senate committee, might attempt to offer evidence that Nixon was aware of the Watergate coverup. The President has denied any knowledge of the coverup and blamed Dean for not telling him.

Various accounts indicate the 34-year-old lawyer was at the center of the scandal from the beginning, helped mastermind the coverup and, according to news reports, is prepared to say Nixon personally congratulated him for his efforts to keep high officials from being indicted.

Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., vice chairman of the investigating committee, said Sunday he expects Dean "will tell a rather complete story" at the televised hearings beginning Tuesday.

Interviewed on the ABC broadcast "Issues and Answers," Baker said the President hopefully won't invoke executive privilege or the attorney-client relationship to block Dean's testimony.

Previous testimony by former reelection committee deputy director Jeb Stuart Magruder placed responsibility for the Watergate plans and coverup on himself, Dean and former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell. Magruder said he gave accounts of the plans to Gordon Strachan, presidential chief of staff H.R. Haldeman's aide.

Haldeman has denied any prior knowledge of the break-in or the coverup, but Senate sources have told The Associated Press both Dean and Strachan are prepared to testify that Haldeman was kept in the loop of all major developments and decisions in the case.

With Congress, mayors

Revenue sharing is in trouble

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The first special revenue-sharing bill of President Nixon's second term is in trouble with Congress and the nation's mayors.

Foremost among disagreements over the Better Communities Bill is whether the federal government should tell cities to spend their community development dollars on the poor.

There also is disagreement over how much money the federal government will provide and what will be done until the bill becomes law.

Undersecretary Floyd Hyde of the Department of Housing and Urban Development called the measure "a cornerstone of President Nixon's new federalism" during discussions Sunday at the annual meeting of the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

Even though all parties — the administration, Congress and the mayors — agreed on the principle of giving local officials more freedom in spending federal aid, the current debate over details threatens to kill the proposal, Hyde said.

The bill, which would take effect July 1, 1974, proposes to replace seven HUD programs under which municipalities applied to the federal government for specific grants for projects authorized by each program. The programs include urban renewal and model cities.

That system would be replaced by automatic grants of money — a total of $2.5 million for the first year — for community development. The grants would go to cities of more than 50,000 population, with the amount figured from a formula that considers population, number of needy persons and amount of overcrowding in housing.

Eagles Telethon raises $75,874

ROCHESTER, Minn. — The 19th annual Eagles Cancer Telethon on Channel 10, Rochester, netted a total of $75,874, according to Bernie Lusk, station announcer.

Of the total, $3,800 came from donors in the Winona area.

2a Winona Daily News
Winona, Minnesota
MONDAY, JUNE 18, 1973

The cities could use the money for almost any community development project they chose.

However, the resolutions committees of the mayor's conference has urged that cities be required to submit outlines of what projects they undertake and show how they will meet housing needs and eliminate slums, among other goals. It also has asked that the federal government review these proposals.

The desire for stated national goals most often is expressed publicly by black mayors. They fear that, without such goals, some unpopular social programs would die — possibly not in their cities but in others. Privately, a number of white mayors, particularly some liberal Democrats, say they want the guidelines so they can blame the federal government for continuing social programs that they like but that are unpopular in their communities.

WRECKED VEHICLE... Two Fillmore County residents were killed in a 1964 sedan Saturday evening on Highway 44, two miles west of Mabel, Minn. Dead at the scene were the driver, S. Sgt. Lindell C. Lund, 41, Whalan Rt. 1, Minn., and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Vernard (Janice) Norby, 26, rural Canton. Mrs. Norby was seated in the back seat, behind Lund. The entire left side of the vehicle was smashed in and the engine was shoved into the driver's seat. (Burr Griswold photo)

Near Mabel

Two killed in headon crash

MABEL, Minn. (Special) — Two area persons were killed instantly in a head-on crash Saturday evening at 8:45 on rain-slicked Highway 44, two miles west of Mabel. Three other persons were reported in satisfactory condition in a Spring Grove hospital.

Dead at the scene were Mrs. Vernard (Janice) Norby, 26, rural Canton, and her brother-in-law, Staff Sgt. Lindell C. Lund, Whalan Rt. 1.

DR. JOHN WESTRUP, Lanesboro, Fillmore County deputy coroner, ruled that Lund, 41, died of crushing injuries to the chest and Mrs. Norby, of a broken neck.

Sgt. Lund was home on leave from Fort Belvoir, Va. He had completed 19 years in the armed forces and had planned to retire in one year.

Lund, driver of a 1964 sedan, was headed east and Robert Starks, 44, Canton, lone occupant of the second car, was westbound.

According to the Highway Patrol the head-on collision occurred on a slight eastbound curve during a light rainfall.

CHARGES are pending against Starks, the investigating officer said.

Passengers in the Lund car were his wife, Marilyn Faye Lund, 28, and Mr. and Mrs. Norby. Mrs. Lund was riding in the front seat and the Norbys were in the back. Mrs. Norby was seated behind the driver.

Following the impact both vehicles spun around. The Starks' car came to rest in the north ditch and the Lund vehicle in the south ditch, just a short distance from the point of impact. Both vehicles came to rest facing west, with all of the occupants remaining inside the wreckage.

Starks, Mrs. Lund and Norby were taken by ambulance to Tweeten Memorial Hospital, Spring Grove. All were reported in satisfactory condition there this morning.

NORBY HAS minor injuries, mostly abrasions; Mrs. Lund has facial and hand cuts and Starks has facial cuts.

Double funeral services for Sgt. Lund and Mrs. Norby have been tentatively set for Thursday at 2 p.m. at Elstad Lutheran Church, rural Lanesboro. The Rev. R. K. Liddell, Elstad Lutheran, and the Rev. Jay Kamrath, Scheie Lutheran Church, rural Mabel, will officiate.

Lund will be buried in the Elstad Church Cemetery and Mrs. Norby in the Scheie Church Cemetery.

Sgt. Lund was born in Holt Township, Fillmore County, Dec. 27, 1931, to Harold and Olga Johnson Lund and married Marilyn Torgerud Aug. 25, 1962, at Elstad Lutheran Church. A 1950 graduate of Lanesboro High School, he was a member of Elstad Lutheran Church. During his career in the armed forces he had served in Korea, Okinawa, Vietnam and Germany.

Survivors are: his wife; parents, Lanesboro; one brother, Darrel Lund, Whalan; a sister, Mrs. Charles (Avis) Lorenze, South St. Paul, and several nieces and nephews.

Mrs. Norby, the former Janice Marie Torgerud, was born Nov. 2, 1946 in Lanesboro to Howard and Mildred Hegna Torgerud and was graduated from Lanesboro High School. She was married Feb. 15, 1963, at Elstad Lutheran Church. She and her husband had lived most of their lives in the Canton area.

Survivors are: her husband; two sons, Daniel and David, a daughter, Lori Ann, all at home; her parents, Lanesboro; three brothers, Hilton, Lanesboro; Kenneth, Rushford, and Roger, Peterson, Minn.; and four sisters, Mrs. Richard (Eileen) Peterson, Mabel; Mrs. Larry (LeAnne) Steinmetz, New Ulm; Debbie Torgerud, Lanesboro; and Mrs. Marilyn Lund, Fort Belvoir, Va.

State road toll rises to 347

There were three other Minnesota traffic accidents over the weekend, raising the state's 1973 highway toll to 347, compared with 365 a year ago.

Daniel L. Johnson, 23, North St. Paul, died at St. Paul Ramsey Hospital late Sunday of injuries received earlier in the day when his motorcycle crashed into a mailbox in Maplewood, police said.

Joseph Lariviere, 27, Duluth, died about 11:30 p.m. Saturday in a one-car rollover on a bridge approach of U.S. 2 in Duluth, police said. His wife, Beverly, 24, was hospitalized in satisfactory condition.

The Patrol reported that Dennis G. Connolly, 31, Rt. 1, Shakopee, Minn., died Sunday of injuries suffered in a one-car accident Saturday night on Interstate 35 in Burnsville. He was alone in the car.

Miss Minnesota contest

Winona's fair share fares well

By BRUCE CLOSWAY
Daily News Staff Writer
AUSTIN, Minn. — Like any other fair-sized Minnesota community, Winona has been known to have its share of attractive young women.

Saturday night in Austin, one resident and four college coeds represented Winona in a most admirable fashion, each performing in the 1973 Miss Minnesota Pageant.

Emphasizing the city's name even further, Miss Winona, Honey Harkenrider; Miss Shakopee, Joleen Marie Benoit; and Miss St. Charles, Betty Lou Golish, were each named as one of 10 finalists to open the final night of the four-day pageant.

In keeping with the trend, the 19-year-old Miss Benoit was eventually selected to succeed Linda Hagyn as Miss Minnesota and Miss Harkenrider was the judges' choice for third runnerup.

A 5-foot, 4-inch brunette, Miss Benoit just completed her freshman year as a music major at Winona State. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Benoit of Farmington, Miss Benoit was entered in the pageant as Miss Shakopee, a title she earned in June 1972.

The surprised new Miss Minnesota addressed the capacity audience in the Austin High School Auditorium.

"This is such a great honor... I'm just thoroughly shocked. But I can promise you that I'll do my best to represent the state of Minnesota."

She later told reporters that she hadn't planned to return to Winona State in the fall because of financial difficulties, but perhaps the combined $1,500 scholarship she was awarded will help her change her mind by the time her reign is over.

A delegation of nearly 100 people from the Farmington area attended the pageant and created outburst when the climactic announcement was made by master of ceremonies John O'Rourke.

For her talent number, Miss Benoit sang "Killing Me Softly," a song made famous by Roberta Flack, and accompanied herself on the guitar.

Finishing as the third runnerup, Miss Harkenrider achieved the highest recognition for a Miss Winona entrant in the Miss Minnesota Pageant since Marie Miller was crowned Miss Minnesota in 1956.

The 5-foot, 7½-inch blonde, a senior-to-be at Gustavus Adolphus College in St. Peter, performed a dance dramatization of the lyrics of "I Don't Know How to Love Him" from the play "Jesus Christ, Superstar," as her talent number.

She said her attitude changed a bit once she realized she was a finalist.

"I think I started to relax when I learned I was finalist," she said. "I guess I was in kind of state of shock and had to remind myself not to let up. I knew what to expect from the competition tonight."

Miss Harkenrider, 20, will relinquish her crown at the Miss Winona, Queen of Steamboat Days Pageant to be held July 10 in the Winona Junior High School Auditorium.

Miss Stillwater, Teri Thompson, was named first runnerup; Miss Maplewood, Dawn LaMotte, was second runnerup; and Miss St. Cloud, Cynthia Gauthier, was selected as fourth runnerup. The Miss Congeniality Award went to Wendy Anderson, Miss Red Wing.

The other two college coeds from Winona entered in the pageant were Susan Ann Adair, a student at Winona State who represented Albert Lea, and Constance Dietrich, a student at the College of St. Teresa, who was entered as Miss Plainview.

CROWNING COMMENT... Outgoing Miss Minnesota, Linda Hagyn, crowns a stunned Miss Shakopee, Joleen Marie Benoit, to climax the 1973 Miss Minnesota Pageant held in Austin Saturday night. ### Durand man is charged with firearm misuse

DURAND, Wis. — Lloyd Levold, Durand, was charged with reckless use of a firearm this morning in Pepin County Court as the result of a Saturday evening shooting. He appeared before Judge Joseph Riedner.

The shooting victim, Levold's 41-year-old wife, Mary, was listed in good condition this morning at Sacred Heart Hospital, Eau Claire.

She reportedly has gunshot wounds in the chest and arm. The shooting occurred about 8 p.m. Saturday at the Blue Roof Motel here, which is owned by the Levolds.

Levold was booked in the Pepin County Jail here after the incident. Following his appearance this morning he was released on a $1,000 signature bond. His next appearance will be July 2 at 2 p.m.

According to the Pepin County Sheriff's office, the weapon used was a .25-caliber pistol.

Total loss is declared after fire hits van

A 1964 foreign model van, owned by Dale McCaffrey, 416 E. King St., was declared a total loss when it caught fire and burned Saturday morning on Highway 61 east of 44th Avenue in Goodview.

According to Merlin Iverson, Goodview Village marshal, the vehicle caught fire and the Goodview volunteer fire department responded about 11:30 but was unable to save the vehicle.

The van contained a large amount of camping equipment which also was destroyed.

The cause of the fire was not determined, Iverson said.

Charges pending against youth in one-car crash

MILLVILLE, Minn. (Special) — Charges are pending against a 17-year-old Lake City youth who was involved in a one-car accident near here Saturday evening, reported the Wabasha County Sheriff's office.

The driver was identified as Randall Moyer.

The accident occurred at 11:30 p.m. on Wabasha County Road 2, two miles north of Millville.

The sheriff's office said that Moyer lost control of his 1961 car as he was negotiating a curve. The car went off the northbound shoulder, veered back onto the roadway, crossed to the south side where it ran into a ditch and tipped over on its side in a cornfield.

The car was termed a total loss.

SHOOTING ACCIDENT

PLYMOUTH, Wis. (AP) — Cary Pharrmann, 5, was fatally wounded Sunday when he wandered into a shed behind a target being used by his father and another son for firearm practice at their rural Plymouth home.

Lake City man injured in cycle accident

ZUMBRO FALLS, Wis. (Special) — A 22-year-old Lake City motorcyclist was injured in a one-vehicle accident Saturday about 4:30 p.m. on Wabasha County Road 68, three miles south of here.

Robert Hinck was taken to Lake City Municipal Hospital and then transferred to a Rochester hospital.

Hinck was listed in satisfactory condition this morning at St. Marys Hospital, with head injuries.

The Wabasha County Sheriff's office reported that Hinck lost control of his cycle while he was negotiating a curve on the gravel roadway. The cycle shot across the center line and went off the shoulder of the roadway, where it overturned.

Estimated damage to the cycle was $75.

Two injured in two-car crash near Conception

CONCEPTION, Minn. (Special) — Two persons suffered minor injuries in a two-car collision Sunday at 1:07 p.m. on Wabasha County Road 18, 1½ miles southeast of Conception.

Drivers were Otto Hemmeh, 24, Byron Rt. 2, Minn., and Jerry Duece, 17, Shakopee, Minn.

Mrs. Hemmeh and her four-month-old son were injured slightly.

The Wabasha County Sheriff's office said that the two vehicles met head-on as Hemmeh was going south and Duece was headed north, but in the wrong lane.

Charges are pending against Duece, reported the sheriff's office.

Estimated damages: $1,500 to Hemmeh's car and $200 to Duece's.

Mrs. Gandhi on Canadian visit

OTTAWA (AP) — Indira Gandhi is making her fourth visit to Canada. But this time she visits as the Prime Minister of India.

Mrs. Gandhi arrived in Ottawa Sunday for an eight-day visit, having just completed an official visit to Yugoslavia where she met with President Tito.

Mrs. Gandhi's visit is her first as chief of state. She had been in Canada on three other occasions as a private citizen.

Police check eight accidents

Eight vehicle accidents were investigated by city police during the weekend. There were no serious injuries.

At 7:32 p.m. Saturday, vehicles driven by Gloria Wagner, La Crescent, Minn., and Timothy Trotman, Blooming Prairie, Minn., collided at Highway 14-61 and Polzer Street.

Two passengers in the Wagner vehicle, Daniel Wagner, 2, and Perny Wagner, 6, were treated at Community Memorial Hospital and released.

The Wagner car, a 1971 model hardtop, received $1,500 from end damage and the Trotman car, a sedan of undetermined age, $800 to the right side. Police said Mrs. Wagner was traveling east on Highway 61 and Trotman was westbound and turning left onto Highway 14.

OTHER ACCIDENTS
Sunday
3 p.m. — Hit and run, Lake Park Lodge, Timothy Michelfelder, Pl. Dodge, Iowa, parked, 1965 model sedan, $50 damage.

8:30 p.m. — Collision while launching boat, municipal boat harbor, Gaylord Ellerman, Winona Rt. 3, 1965 sedan, $300 damage; Mrs. Kathleen Creeley, 623 Harriet St., 1964 model sedan, $50.

11 p.m. — Intersection collision, 2nd and Center streets, Karen Opsahl, 4210 7th St., Goodview, 1972 foreign model auto, $250 damage; Katherine Piel, Fountain City, Wis., 1965 model sedan, damage unknown.

12:10 a.m. — Rear end collision, Highway 43, CSAH 17, Richard Glenna, Whalan, Minn., 1968 model hardtop, $25 damage; Gilman Lundqvist, Decorah, Iowa, 1961 model sedan, $350.

Saturday
10:20 p.m. — Head-on collision, West 5th Street 100 feet west of Olmstead Street, Mrs. Lois Hips, 1503 W. 5th St., 1970 model sedan, $800; Thomas Thompson, Madison, Wis., 1970 model sedan, $800.

9:50 p.m. — Collision with parked vehicle, East 4th and Kansas streets, Ricky Brink, 367 Grand St., 1962 station wagon, $300 damage; Victor Huff, 304 E. 4th St., 1965 model sedan (parked), $200.

4:40 p.m. — Intersection collision, East Broadway and Franklin Street, Patricia Oblitz, 740 41st Ave., Goodview, 1971 model sedan, $900 damage; Edwin Sikorski, 403 Chaffield St., 1969 model sedan, $500.

Garbage back on council agenda

Garbage is back on the Winona City Council's agenda tonight as councilmen continue seeking a direction to take in handling the city's garbage and refuse collection.

A city garbage collection contract with Refuse Disposal, La Crosse, Wis., expires July 1, and councilmen must decide before then if they wish to continue that system or change the collection pattern.

THE COUNCIL is considering continuing the present system, which calls for a garbage collection contract only and leaves refuse disposal to residents; entering the business itself and taking care of both garbage and refuse; contracting for both garbage and refuse hauling; or ignoring the whole affair, leaving residents to dispose of their own garbage and refuse.

The council meets at 7:30 p.m. in city hall.

Also on the council's agenda tonight is a discussion of the future of the city-owned municipal harbor.

Dick's Marine Owner Richard and Kaniz may be interested in negotiating release of his contract with the city to operate the harbor, and councilmen tonight will be asked if they are interested in seeing the Winona Port Authority take over the operation there.

THE AUTHORITY last week indicated it would be interested in operating the slip rental and gasoline sales there and rent out building space for boat sales and repair. Councilmen tonight will also be asked to authorize City Manager Paul Schriever to purchase land from the Chicago and North Western Railroad at the foot of Stone and Ben streets for construction of a city central garage facility.

The council will be asked to act on a final subdivision plat for the second subdivision in Pleasant Green, the McNally townhouse project. The subdivision was approved last week by the city planning commission.

Demo convention

Resolutions could cause a split

KENOSHA, Wis. (AP) — The votes were overwhelming, but Wisconsin Democratic convention resolutions on President Nixon and the Watergate scandal produced a potentially troublesome split among party leaders.

Not all of them were happy when the two-day convention broke up after resolutions were passed Saturday calling for the resignation of the President or for impeachment should evidence prove he knew of the burglary on the subsequent cover-up.

Gov. Patrick J. Lucey's request June 4 for Nixon to resign was resoundingly approved in a resolution by a majority of the nearly 1,200 delegates who attended the convention in the Carthage College fieldhouse.

Endorsed with an equally loud chorus was a resolution urging Congress to begin impeachment proceedings immediately against Nixon and Vice President Spiro Agnew, should evidence involve them in the Watergate burglary or cover-up.

Neither proposal met with favor from either of the state's two U.S. senators, Gaylord Nelson and William Proxmire. They called the convention action premature.

A member of the Democratic National Committee, Donald O. Peterson of Eau Claire, and national committeewoman Mary Lou Berg of West Bend also expressed opposition.

Peterson and Miss Berg said they feared the resolutions would tend to solidify ranks of state Republicans behind Nixon.

Both of these resolutions could be counter-productive," Peterson contended.

He called the resolutions irresponsible, saying they were enacted by delegates who "more or less wanted to satisfy their ego. Miss Berg said she was surprised at the adoptions, but considered them highly premature.

"In addition to being premature, it puts it in the straight political arena and hardens Republican resolve to keep the President in office," she said.

Another national committeeman, Michael Blecher, disagreed.

Proxmire said that as a member of the Senate, he would be somewhat of a judge should impeachment begin and should decline to make conclusions "until we have the facts."

"I'll make my judgment," Nelson commented, "when all the facts are in."

He called it political nonsense to speculate whether a man is guilty, then to say if he is proved guilty, "we will convict him."

Delegates approved resolutions calling for:

Abolition of laws controlling "private sexual activity between consenting adults, including the laws pertaining to homosexuality."

Dissemination of contraceptives and the availability of sterilization without restrictions based on age, sex or marital status.

Unconditional amnesty for young men who fled the country or went to prison to avoid serving in the Vietnam war.

Adoption of no-fault auto insurance.

A moratorium on nuclear power plant construction.

Legalization of marijuana.

The convention rejected a proposal that persons granted amnesty for desertion or refusal to serve in the Vietnam war be required to give two years in civilian service.

Delegates re-elected M. William Gerrard of La Crosse, who was tapped for the post by Lucey two years ago, as chairman. He had no opposition.

Marge Pattison of Madison was named first vice chairman, and former state legislator Frank Nikolay of Abbottsford was elected to a new position of second vice chairman.

Sue Albrecht of Madison was elected secretary. John Melloy of Kenosha was re-elected treasurer.

Four new members were elected to the state administrative committee.

They were George Wilbur of River Falls, Mary Birdner of Waukesha, Michael L. Bullock of Madison and state Rep. Janet Mielke of Milton Junction.

La Crosse man to head Democrats for another term

KENOSHA, Wis. (AP) — William Gerrard of La Crosse has been named to another three-year term as Wisconsin Democratic chairman.

He was elected without opposition during the state party's annual convention Saturday.

An attorney John E. Melloy of Kenosha was elected treasurer 525-397 over Pamela Mansfield, 20, a Madison store clerk.

Sue Albrecht of Madison, a secretary in the state treasurer's office, defeated Odell Johnson of Milwaukee 609-279 for party secretary.

Former state legislator Frank L. Nikolay of Abbottsford and Marge Pattison of Madison were named vice chairmen.

U.S. will have an 'unhappy birthday' if Indian affairs not improved: Means

KYLE, S.D. (AP) — American Indian Movement leader Russell Means says the United States will have an "unhappy birthday" unless the government makes some improvements in national Indian affairs.

"I can't speak for AIM outside South Dakota," Means told Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., Sunday. "But the leadership of AIM in the state has decided to give the United States and the white man another chance to change the way Indian affairs are handled."

Means was testifying at hearings of the Senate subcommittee on Indian affairs, chaired by Abourezk, at this tiny Pine Ridge Indian Reservation town. Nearby Wounded Knee was the site of the recent AIM-led confrontation with federal law enforcement personnel that lasted 70 days.

"On July 4, 1976, white America is planning to celebrate its 200th birthday," Means said. "If nothing has changed for Indian people by that time, we will make sure it is an unhappy birthday."

"We feel the government can put into Indian affairs the same effort it put into Vietnam, the United Nations and other areas the kind of positive government aspects that have been denied Indians."

"Based on counsel by our elders, we are willing one more time to give the government a chance," he said. "But we are tiring of giving one chance after another. We must see and feel change so the Indian can walk like a man."

Ramon Roubideaux, AIM attorney from Rapid City, told Abourezk the biggest problem Indians face is bureaucracy.

"The United States has failed in trying to show us how to govern ourselves," he said.

"We want to return to treaty government, because Indians then made their choice of government. We certainly can't do as bad as the United States has done for us."

"Indians all over the country are waking up," Roubideaux said. "The bureaucratic government, with the Bureau of Indian Affairs as its puppet tribal governments, is a failure. It's a vicious failure, because it is a police state. Free the American Indian from bureaucracy and honor our treaties."

Means told Abourezk that conditions on the Pine Ridge Reservation are as bad or worse than before the Wounded Knee incident.

"The situation is as bad as before the takeover, and it only serves to give the suffering Indian people more reason to put their life on the line," he said.

"We keep dealing with rhetoric, not action. The Justice Department has marshals and lawyers, the BIA has people, and they have done nothing to alleviate any of the conditions that led to the occupation."

AIM members and supporters took over the village to dramatize their demands for an investigation of the reservation's tribal government. They also demanded that the government review an 1868 treaty which, they claim, gave the western half of South Dakota to the Sioux.

Charles Red Cloud, a tribal elder, said money that is appropriated for Indian programs isn't reaching the people.

"A lot of money is coming into the reservation in the name of the people," he said. "Nobody knows where the money goes. Our people are poorer than ever."

Abourezk said the hearings were an attempt to gather ideas from Indians on what changes Congress should consider to improve conditions.

Sunday's hearings in Kyle were aimed at allowing so-called traditionalists from the tribe and others who oppose the tribal government to speak.

Saturday Abourezk gathered testimony from Olala Sioux tribal officials and BIA personnel.

Tribal Chairman Richard Wilson said unemployment was the major reservation problem, and he suggested a comprehensive Indian works program similar to the depression-era Civilian Conservation Corps.

He said the program would give Indian people training so they could find work, and said the work program projects could improve homes and roads on the reservation.

He said his tribe has many factions that oppose the elected leadership.

"We have a lot of different people with different ideas, and they don't mind speaking out," Wilson said. "We have our differences, and we are going to continue to have our differences. But we don't settle them with guns. We have elections and we abide by the decision of the majority."

Minnesotans for Mondale, Kennedy according to poll

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Minnesotans prefer Democratic Sens. Walter Mondale and Edward Kennedy by more than 2 to 1 to either Vice President Spiro Agnew or John Connally for President in 1976, according to the Minnesota Poll.

The poll, copyrighted by the Minneapolis Tribune, was based on a mid May statewide survey of 600 voting-age adults.

Mondale led Agnew 64 to 25 per cent and Connally 62 to 25 per cent. Kennedy led Agnew 61 to 27 per cent and Connally 60 to 29 per cent.

Two murdered in Belfast violence

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Two Roman Catholics were murdered within 24 hours of each other over the weekend. A new Protestant terrorist group claimed credit for the slayings.

The group warned, "There will be more of this to come."

The body of James Kelly, a 25-year-old seaman, was found Sunday outside Belfast. The other victim was Daniel Rouse, 17, who was shot to death in a Belfast lot Saturday night.

Shortly after Kelly's body was found, a man telephoned a Belfast newspaper and said:

"Listen carefully. I represent the Ulster Freedom Fighters. We have just assassinated an Irish Republican Army man...

We gave him two in the back and one in the head. This is in retaliation for Wilson."

The caller was referring to the murder Friday of Michael Wilson, 18, the brother-in-law of a former leader of the Protestant Ulster Defense Association.

The Ulster Defense Association blamed the Catholic IRA for Wilson's slaying, but the charge was denied by IRA leaders.

Authorities said dissident members of the Ulster Defense Association appear to be forming the Ulster Freedom Fighters.

The pair of killings raised Northern Ireland's confirmed fatality toll to at least 826 in four years of sectarian strife.

Dean was —

CIA deputy director recollects summons

Li Gen. Vernon A. Walters, deputy director of the Central Intelligence Agency at the time of the break-in, recalled being summoned to Dean's office on June 26:

"He asked whether there was not some way in which the agency might have been involved," Walters said there was no way.

Dean "seemed disappointed," Walters said.

The next two days brought more calls from Dean with suggestions that the CIA use covert funds to put up bail for the Watergate defendants and also pay their salaries while they were in jail, Walters said.

Walters refused to let the agency become involved, he said, and when he threatened to resign Dean backed off.

The next day, former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans told the Senate committee, Herb K. Kalmbach, the President's personal attorney came to him on "an urgent White House project" to solicit cash.

Stans said Kalmbach's lawyer later told him it was Dean who initiated the fund-raising mission.

Within the White House, according to Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, Dean was supposed to be keeping track of Watergate developments.

"If reported or informed me periodically of factors relating to the Watergate matter," said Haldeman.

Were any of these written reports?

"Not to my knowledge," said Haldeman.

At a news conference, Aug. 20, President Nixon said Dean "has conducted a complete investigation of all leads which might involve any present members of the White House staff or anybody in the government."

"I can say categorically that his investigation indicates that no one in the White House, staff, no one in this administration, presently employed, was in-involved in this very bizarre incident."

In January, the Watergate trial opened. Five defendants pleaded guilty, but Liddy and James W. McCord Jr., former re-election committee security director, maintained their innocence.

John J. Caulfield, a former New York policeman, told the Senate committee that on Jan. 13 Dean told him to impress on McCord there was an offer of executive clemency "which comes from the very highest levels of the White House."

According to Haldeman, "Starting the latter part of January, the President met directly with John Dean and I was not in those meetings so I cannot report on the content of them except that I know they were related to Watergate."

On March 20, the President told Dean he wanted a complete report on Watergate the next day. According to Haldeman, that report still maintained no one in the White House had been involved and that he hadn't been able to determine "who exactly was responsible for what with relation to the planning and execution of the Watergate at the re-election committee."

On the 22nd, said Haldeman, Nixon ordered Dean to write up a full report with the intent that it "be made public in some way at the earliest possible time."

But time was running out too rapidly for Dean. The Watergate defendants were scheduled for sentencing March 23, and McCord had made up his mind to talk.

On April 17, the President announced there had been major developments in the case and that he had ordered a second investigation.

Two days later, Dean issued a statement saying he would not become a scapegoat in the Watergate scandal.

On April 30, the President fired Dean.

The former presidential counsel already had begun bidding with prosecutors to trade what he knew for immunity from prosecution.

So far, the prosecutors have insisted that he plead guilty to a single count of conspiracy to obstruct justice.

Starting Tuesday, Dean will offer his testimony, not to the federal grand jury, as the prosecutors wanted, but to the Senate committee and a nationwide audience.

Does anyone else miss downtown flags?

A sad statistic: Fewer than 50 attended the Elks' Flag Day ceremony on Levee Plaza.

A disheartening note: Some of the young people didn't bother even to stand up.

And finally: The flag standards on the light poles in downtown were empty — again.

The last requires a little explanation.

For a long time the city street department put up the flags for holidays and conventions. They were purchased by the Winona Area Chamber of Commerce. The display at one time also included a Steamboat Days flag. Each succeeding time there were fewer flags for raising the next time. The wind ripped some and the weather caused others to deteriorate so that they needed to be burned. But the worst attrition was because of theft, and, of course, the thieves selected flags in good condition.

At first the chamber replaced them, but then it tired of it. The city said it had no money, nor did the Downtown Promotional Association. A proposal that individual merchants purchase flags for placement in front of their business fell on deaf ears, in the main.

So, mournfully, we have one flag on the mall and a few scattered displays downtown, but that's all.

Does anyone want to come to the rescue? —A.B.

Liberty 1776-1876-1973

This editorial was prepared by the American Historic and Cultural Society, sponsors of the Honor America program, being observed this year from Flag Day to Independence Day.

When this republic observes the bicentennial of its birth, three years from now, there should be proper recognition of an idea that was the result of the 100th birthday in 1876—the Statue of Liberty, a symbol of “liberty enlightening the world.”

The exuberance of the still young nation observing its first centennial was to be linked that day with an older country, though younger republic, France. But the resulting gift from the people of France to America, the Statue of Liberty, has been literally a beacon of hope to the oppressed people of the world.

As the official program noted on that July 4th, 1886, when the statue was dedicated, “. . . in it we see a great republic whose strength lies in her love of arts and peace, impersonated by a gracefully formed woman. Older nations, whose history is blurred and blotted by beads of blood appropriately adorn their streets and squares with stately swordsmen. No amazon, armed with sword and spear, mounted on fiery steed could represent the American republic.”

Frederick Auguste Bartholdi's statue called on the world to give the young nation “its huddled masses.” While immigrants today do not arrive in the great numbers that swarmed here in the latter part of the 19th century, the message of hope to the world and citizens of the U.S.A. still is clear.

When we honor America on July Fourth, the 197th birthday anniversary, we should give a respectful nod to the lady that is the great masterpiece in New York harbor symbolizing “liberty enlightening the world.”

Ron Ziegler's diary

Russell Baker

The following are excerpts from Ronald Ziegler's diary, which was leaked by sources close to the source of the Nile. Ziegler's diary entries are undated. This is because Ziegler apparently distrusts his diary. Consider the following entry:

“Dear diary: No, no, no. I have thought about it all week, and it seems manifestly indicative of the present state of — Oh, diary, why do I talk that way to you? Can it be that I am now so terrified of saying something when I speak that I cannot even talk straight from the shoulder to my good old faithful diary?”

“And yet, how do I know you don't leak? Everybody is leaking these days. Nobody is safe. Even safes have begun to leak. That's why I have decided not to put dates on these entries.”

“I am not authorized to tell anybody what day of the week it is. Why should I tell diaries?”

In the following entry, which is typical of many, Ziegler faces his diary at the end of a busy day:

“Dear diary: Certain events of a public character eventuated in connection with two separate branches of a certain large government today. As I have indicated in multiple previous entries, I am not at liberty to disclose the identity of that particular government, nor of the two separate branches involved in the eventuation to which my opening statement alluded, and I will stand on that statement in regard to non-disclosure.”

Ziegler's work requires him to listen to White House correspondents' questions twice a day. In the following rare and exuberant entry he tells his diary that he has answered one of these incessant questions:

“Diary, diary! What a day! Forgive my silly boyish lapse into monosyllables; I know it should be, ‘the present diurnal cycle has been most gratifying.’ Nevertheless, diary there are times when I feel so wonderful, spiritwise, about a particularly good piece of work that I cannot stop myself from lapsing into English.”

“The present diurnal cycle in which we are now situated has witnessed such an event. It would be constitutionally inelectable for me to disclose the details, and as a consequence of this assertion of the doctrine of the ineluctability of excessive disclosure, I shall have nothing more to say about that at this time except that — well, diary I was really good in there today.”

With the start of the Watergate leaks, Ziegler began to be more careful about what he told his diary.

“Dear diary” begins a typical entry from this period. “I'd like to tell you who I am, but in the absence of positive evidence of your absolute loyalty to the historic doctrine of the ineffability of powers, I can only caution you not to assume that I am the same person you used to think I might be. Everything that has gone before is now inappropriate.”

In the following entry Ziegler tells his diary that he has been promoted and is now the Nixon Administration's Director of Information:

“Dear diary: In view of the present situation as it exists at this moment in time, it has been decided by me that excessive information supply to diary-type media must be subjected to discreet curbing. For this reason, I will have nothing to tell you today, and may not tomorrow, or thereafter, in actual point of inauspicious fact.

Liberalization policy

William Safire

WASHINGTON — If Leonid Ilyich Brezhnev were an American political leader, he would be referred to by his initials: L.I.B.

The letters form a modish shortening of the word “liberation,” and they are apt in Brezhnev's case, for he has helped spawn — if not a liberation — at least a liberalization of policy toward the West.

As evidence of that new attitude, he arrives on an official visit to the United States this weekend. Ordinarily, an event of that diplomatic magnitude would receive much advance attention and analysis. Now, what with wage-price moves and Kissinger-Tho meetings and Senate Watergate hearings, the American attitude toward the Soviet leader seems to be “make yourself at home, we're a little busy at the moment.”

YET THE Brezhnev visit is far more than a ceremonial return call after last year's Moscow summit. Sen. Henry Jackson, for one, hopes the meeting will be merely cosmetic — he is fearful that substantive matters will be discussed and agreements may be reached during “a risky time for bargaining.” But the President is not about to halt the momentum of detente because the Senate is mining the harbors of the White House.

What will come out of this visit? A group of agreements will be signed — agriculture, transportation, oceanography, culture, taxes, maybe a pleasant surprise on scientific cooperation — that have been marching toward conclusion for a year. There will be no “center-piece,” as at the Moscow summit — no strategic arms limitation signing, reversing the dangerous trend of a generation — but SALT will certainly be a topic of their talks, and the two men at the top may resolve some impasses that trouble the negotiators of SALT II.

Strolling down the beach at San Clemente, they are bound to discuss how and when U.S. and Soviet troops should be withdrawn from Western Europe. Either will make commitments, but there will undoubtedly be some probing of positions on what must be the next great step away from world war.

The focus of public attention will be on trade: That's where the action is today, and that's where the paradox can be found.

American conservatives, who used to be leery of doing business with the communists, are now in the forefront of commercial activism — led by businessmen who salivate at new markets and new sources of raw materials.

American liberals, who used to be anxious to increase contact with the Soviet Union, are now looking dubious about doing business: “Would it be wise,” wonders economics Prof. Gregory Grossman in the New Republic, “for us to assume the role of the Soviet Union's banker?”

THE REASON FOR reversal of ideological roles is partly political — some of Nixon's foes do not want his domestic troubles obscured by dramatic successes in building a structure of peace — but more of the flipflop's reason is economic, since conservative businessmen are partial to, and liberals suspicious of, “big deals.”

Big economic dealing, such as financing energy-production technology in the Soviet Union in return for long-term availability to the U.S. of natural gas, builds connective tissue between societies. Does this mean we would be building a dependency on the Soviet Union for natural gas? Perhaps — but we would also be building a Soviet dependency on our hard-currency income, which would make them less inclined to waste their resources on SS-9 missiles.

In terms of short term tactics, the Soviet desperation for grain, and their need for technology to improve their industrial productivity, make it possible for us to extract diplomatic and political concessions, such as more freedom to emigrate for Soviet citizens, particularly persecuted Jews. Nixon will not suddenly forget how to play high-stakes poker because of the racket in his back yard.

In terms of grand strategy, both sides are certain they are gaining the historic advantage.

The Soviets see these years as a time for milking the West, gaining the technology and the financing to enable them to dominate the world a generation hence. As Brezhnev exhorts, Nixon-style in his new book: “Comrades we are not building a land of idlers where rivers flow with milk and honey, but the most organized and most industrious society in human history.”

The Americans see these years as a time for modifying (some would say subverting) communism, turning Marxim's economic determinism back on itself by steadily increasing Soviet responsiveness to market demands, helping accelerate the trend toward capitalism.

NEITHER SIDE admits to such gutsy long-range goals, of course — we like to communicate in the soothing rhetoric of cooperation. But because our dealings are rooted in self-interest, there is at least a chance that the realists rather than the idealists will force peace down the throat of the world.

I was tempted to offer a toast to LIB's visit using the vodka that the Soviets presented to the Americans who accompanied the President to Moscow last year; unfortunately, the top of the decanter was defective and all the vodka evaporated. Press on with the big deals, but watch those guys.

Vultures over Watergate

of the gravest inquests in the history of this Republic.)

They seek “justice” about as much as those people at a bullfight who are in attendance because they appreciate the grace of the matador. Morally, they are looking for blood. More literally, they lust for the humiliation of whoever may be in the dock — and especially so if he is or has been powerful and is in or has held a place of honor and responsibility.

They are corporate common men with a capital “C” and they want their victim brought low. They slavered to have Franklin Roosevelt slandered because the Japanese attacked us at Pearl Harbor. They exulted when Sen. Joseph McCarthy, running amok with a loaded machine gun over due process and the Bill of Rights, sought the destruction of President Harry Truman and Secretary of State Dean Acheson as accomplices of “communism.”

Now, they want Richard Nixon. Precisely because the legitimate public interest is undeniable, I have supported and continue to support the right and indeed the high duty of the Senate to make its own unimpeded inquiry into Watergate. I do not believe this inquiry in itself has been unfair or that it will prejudice the courtroom rights of witnesses who may fall under criminal indictment.

Though I am no rapt admirer of the TV tube on the whole, I do not believe that television's coverage in and of itself is against either the public interest or the interests of those accused.

I DO MOST earnestly believe, however, that since the Ervin committee is for all practical purposes putting the President himself on trial in the moral and ethical senses, Chairman Sam Ervin now has an inescapable duty. This is to make it clear beyond all possibility of doubt that he will no longer tolerate the gross and mindless unfairness of spectator demonstrations that are automatically hostile to the administration side and automatically

The 2 affairs: II

William F. Buckley

Concerning references made here a fortnight ago to similarities and dissimilarities between Kennedy-Chappaquiddick and Nixon-Watergate, and Sen. Kennedy's objection thereto, the tale continues: . . .

The New York Times news story commented on the “remarkably brief inquiry” by the grand jury in April 1970 into Chappaquiddick. “At the very outset of their deliberations the jury ran into a roadblock when a superior court judge refused to let them see impounded records of a secret inquest held last January . . . The jurors were further frustrated, it was learned, by their realization that District Attorney Edward Dinis, who knew the contents of the report which was forbidden them, and who had already twice investigated the drowning, felt further action was futile. Mr. Dinis . . . faces reelection next fall on the same Democratic ticket with Senator Kennedy. . . .”

THE NEW YORK Times editorial referred, in quotes, to the “investigation” which “ended with no indictments and no diminution of the mystery surrounding the plunge from a narrow bridge on Chappaquiddick Island last summer of a car driven by Sen. Edward Kennedy. The speed with which the inquiry was concluded and the failure to call any of those most directly involved only adds to dissatisfaction widely felt by the public that there remains a multitude of unanswered questions relating to the episode.”

The National Observer cited the pressures on the members of the grand jury to keep mouths shut. “Said Judge Paquet sternly: ‘You have no right and it would be violative of your duty and your oath to your God if you revealed one single thing that happens in the grand jury room. And I don't mean for a day. I mean forever. Your lips are sealed.’ Seated next to the judge was a Roman Catholic priest, apparently because Massachusetts jurists may have a clergyman of their choice at benchside if they so choose. Thus, the grand jurors, in effect, were doubly warned about the cosmic consequences should they break their silence.” If the grand jurors in the Watergate case had been so effectively silenced, the New York Times and the Washington Post would have appeared, in recent weeks, as great tracts of blank paper.

After the inquest was released, the New York Times editorial said: “. . . it exposes the utter inadequacy of the efforts of local law enforcement officials to arrive at the truth. Sen. Kennedy's story, too well known to repeat here, Judge Boyle found unbelievable. So do we . . . The judge's own conclusions would have been more solidly grounded, however, if the investigators of the tragedy by the appropriate officers of town and state had reflected a determination to get to the bottom of this strange tale.”

THE WALL STREET Journal said that clearly Sen. Kennedy had been treated deferentially by Massachusetts authorities: “. . . it was a crescendo of bungling in the judicial process, that at no step of the way had Sen. Edward Kennedy been subject to the same scrutiny an ordinary citizen would have received in similar circumstances . . . What seems to have happened is this: that favoritism in the judicial process drew criticism when the public could learn of it, so a lid of secrecy was clamped on so the favoritism could continue with utmost decorum, subject to criticism only after the Senator was better protected from further prosecution.”

The Louis Harris Poll, published in Time Magazine after Sen. Kennedy's television speech, after he had refused to answer questions by the press, after he worked, in Time's words, “through his lawyers, to alter the ground rules of an inquest into the death” showed that Kennedy slipped seven percentage points, from 44 percent who believed in August that “Kennedy has not told the truth about the accident” to 51 percent. Nixon slipped eight points, from 50 percent to 58 percent after his television appearances.

SO THEN the similarities are: .

- 1) Neither Kennedy nor Nixon would meet the press.
- 2) Both Kennedy and Nixon made television statements, and both of them were widely disbelieved.
- 3) Both Kennedy and Nixon, it was widely alleged, used their influence, or at least their influence was used in their behalf, on the prosecution and the courts.
- 4) Both lost a considerable amount of their popularity.

Now: the reason I brought it up in the first place was merely to suggest that Sen. Kennedy, by making minor concessions (he admitted to a misdemeanor) and by staying out of the public eye, got by with it all. Nixon cannot get away from the public view and handled himself, in his television statements, more maladroitly than Sen. Kennedy.

Tax limit backed; not impoundment

Harris Survey

By 45-26 percent, most Americans support a move by Congress to "agree to a $268 billion ceiling on all federal spending, but not to allow President Nixon to refuse to spend monies Congress appropriates."

One of the major disputes raging between the White House and the Congress in 1973 has been the refusal of the President to spend certain monies authorized by Congress and the use of the veto by Mr. Nixon of measures he feels are inflationary or are for programs he feels have not been effective. By a narrow 42-34 percent plurality, the public favors the position of Congressional Democrats who say that key social programs for the poor should be continued.

RECENTLY, a nationwide cross section of 1,537 households was asked a kind of "show-down" question pitting the arguments of the White House against those put forth on Capitol Hill:

"In order to cut down on federal spending, to keep inflation in check, and to avoid a 15 percent rise in taxes, President Nixon wants to cut back some social programs started under Democratic presidents, which he feels have been failures. Some Democrats in Congress believe that the President is wrong and wants to undo social programs badly needed by the poor and disadvantaged. Democratic senators also say they will not spend more than the ceiling they and the President have agreed on, so no tax increase or greater inflation will result. If you had to say, who do you think is more right on this disagreement over cutting back social programs—President Nixon or the Democrats in Congress?"

China winning friends abroad

By JOHN RODERICK
TOKYO (AP) — With traveling sports teams, archeological treasures, documentary films, trade exhibits and diplomats, China is winning friends abroad.

From Dar es Salaam in Tanzania to New York, the Chinese in their Mao jackets greeted with cheers for their athletic skill, critical acclaim for their recently unearthed masterpieces and a surge of good feeling at their smiling presence.

At the same time, foreigners are making points with the Chinese as more and more individuals and groups pour into China.

All of this is in stark contrast to the days of the 1966-69 cultural revolution when China broke off international contacts and turned a hostile eye on foreigners in its midst.

Since the Ping Pong diplomacy in 1971, the Chinese have begun to look outward, gaining confidence as their first tentative overtures were greeted with enthusiasm.

Peking's new mood embraces virtually every country, no matter how politically differing from its own. Representatives of Greece are wine and dined in Peking and a Chinese sports team appears in Spain, despite the anti-communist coloration of those two nations.

Even Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists on Taiwan are being wooed. They are invited to send a Ping Pong team to Peking, and though they won't do so, some Taiwanese in Japan are drumming up some players to make the trip.

More significantly, Peking has offered to talk out its differences with Chiang, to reach a compromise on eventual unification. The answer so far has been a cold rebuff.

There are exceptions to the affability campaign: the Russians aren't included and neither are the Israelis.

The archeological exhibitions opened to considerable fanfare in Paris and in Tokyo. The exhibits are rare finds, ranging from earthenware vessels from prehistory to exquisite examples of Tang and Sung pottery, uncovered in recent years. The center of attraction at each is a burial suit made of small pieces of jade stitched together with silver thread.

Art experts from all over Europe and some from the United States flocked to the Paris show, which moved later to London.

Chinese gymnasts were in Canada, a table tennis team in Malaysia, a soccer team in North Korea, a volleyball team is playing in Tanzania and a Shanghai acrobatic team is performing for crowds in Italy.

A Chinese woman player sang the popular Italian tune "Bella, Ciao" in Rome, reports the usually restrained Hsinhua news agency, and brought down the house.

UNDERNEATH the nationwide averages on the side of the Democratic position some sharp and classic splits emerge. The Democratic Congress receives its strongest backing on the spending issue dispute with the President on the East and West coasts, among young people, and among those who live in the cities or suburbs of metropolitan areas.

The most massive reason for support of the position of the Democratic Congress can be found in the one in five who expressed the feeling, "We must have federal programs for the poor." A 25-year-old lawyer in Rock Island, Ill., put it this way, "As much as we might have been wrong with poverty programs in the past, that still is no reason for us to abandon the poor at the federal level." An unemployed black in Detroit said, "We could starve to death if Nixon had his way."

Other reasons cited in backing Congress' position were that "many of the poverty programs have worked well, not poorly," and "the money for the poor should be taken from foreign aid and space programs," thus obviating a need to increase federal spending.

PRESIDENT Nixon receives support on quite different grounds. A businessman in Covina, Calif., said, "For years, we've known there has been too much waste in poverty programs, if not downright crookedness." An office manager in Shreveport, La., was even more categorical: "Money for the poor has gone down a rat-hole. It's all been a total failure." An elderly retired woman in Sarasota, Fla., said, "Until we try sending the welfare people to work, we should stop all programs for the poor." A 45-year-old machinist in Dayton said, "The President wants to try to cut spending, and I'm all for that."

When asked about one specific Nixon veto, that of the $2.6 billion dollar vocational rehabilitation measure, which Congress failed to override, the public came down on the side of Congress by 63-26 percent. The attempt to override the President's veto just failed to achieve a two-thirds vote, and significantly, in the Harris Survey, the 63 percent figure is just short of the same mark.

The case for the Democrats in Congress was undoubtedly enhanced by their agreeing to set a limit on spending themselves, even though a number of leading liberals in the Senate have expressed reservations about this move.

By setting a ceiling on the monies it can appropriate, and with a White House weakened by the Watergate disclosures, Congress at the moment has a narrow advantage over the President in the spending battle.

Alice doesn't waste time in going to work

RICE LAKE, Wis. (AP) — Mary Hopkins radiated the spirit expected of any young public relations employee who is supposed to represent the interests of the hard-working farmer.

"Who needs sleep at a time like this?" she declared after bouncing off to a Sunday breakfast with a war veterans' group on only three hours sleep.

Miss Hopkins, 21, daughter of the Cumberland postmaster, was at work on her first day as an employee of the state Agriculture Department, having been named winner Saturday of the agency's annual Alice in Dairyland contest.

The University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire coed is to work for the department for a year, promoting Dairy State products at a salary for the year of $7,875.

She will also get an expense account to handle promotional travels which customarily represent 80,000 miles annually for the pageant winner.

She is 5-feet-5, has auburn hair and blue eyes, is an honor student who can play a variety of instruments ranging from piano to cornet and alto clarinet, and is aiming her college career at becoming a school teacher.

There were 16 finalists emerging this season from the dozens of applicants screened by department interviewers.

Jenny Trumpy, 19, of South Wayne was the runner-up, and Brenda Sherry, 20, of Viroqua was third.

Marilyn Drew, 22, of Rice Lake was chosen Miss Winsome by contestants.

Six drownings in Wisconsin

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Six persons were reported drowned in Wisconsin during the weekend.

Frank Morgan, 52, drowned Saturday in Milwaukee while swimming in the Milwaukee River.

Carl Hoffmann, 39, of Wauwatosa drowned Saturday during a Lake Michigan squall near Kenosha when a 15-foot motor boat capsized.

Donna Rupp, 1, of rural Waukesha drowned Saturday when she stepped through a rug which authorities said was serving as a cover over a septic tank.

The body of Michael J. Webster Jr., 18, of Northbrook, Ill., was found Saturday in a Lake Geneva motel swimming pool where he had been seen taking a pre-dawn swim.

Two Boy Scouts on a hike, James Kakuske, 12, and Scott Atkinson, 16, of Janesville, drowned late Friday in the Rock River near Edgerton.

The body of Atkinson, who had jumped in the river in an attempt to rescue Kakuske, was recovered Sunday.

Reputed underworld figure is sentenced

MIAMI (AP) — Reputed underworld figure Meyer Lansky has been sentenced to a year and a day in jail for dodging a grand jury summons.

The 72-year-old Lansky insisted before the sentencing in federal district court here that he had been unable to respond to the summons because he was ill in Israel.

U.S. District Court Judge James L. King recommended that in consideration of Lansky's "serious medical problems," including open heart surgery last March, his confinement be spent at the medical center for federal prisoners at Springfield, Mo.

Haldeman has no comment on Moos speech

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Former presidential aide H. R. Haldeman had no comment Saturday night on the commencement address of University of Minnesota President Malcolm Moos.

"I'm here for my daughter's graduation, and I'm not going to say anything about anything," Haldeman told a reporter.

Moos made several apparent references to the Watergate scandal. Haldeman's April resignation was linked to the Watergate investigations.

"The American crisis today is not in the halls of academe but in the halls of state, not on its campuses but in its capital," Moos said in his address.

Although he did not mention Watergate by name, the reference was apparent when he said:

"Even now, when there is so much hand-wringing and head-shaking, there are ample reasons for confidence. We have weathered the crises of the sixties and we will weather the crises of the seventies too. Already we have seen that our courts and our press are still functioning as they should."

Indian receives doctorate from U. of Minnesota

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The University of Minnesota has awarded only its second doctoral degree to an American Indian.

The recipient is Kenneth Ross, 31, former state director of Indian education in South Dakota.

Ross earned his doctorate in a federally funded program which trains administrators for schools serving Indian children. He will be superintendent of schools for the Window Rock public district at Fort Defiance, Ariz., a system with a 95 percent Navajo Indian population.

Two of Ross's brothers are also working toward a doctorate in the same program at the University of Minnesota. A third brother is working toward his master's degree at Black Hills, S.D., State College.

His parents, Harvey and Agnes Ross of Flandreau, S.D., were on hand Saturday night to see him receive his degree during commencement ceremonies at the state fairgrounds.

The University of Minnesota program is one of only four at universities across the country. The Minnesota program includes participants from 14 Indian tribes.

Ross and his wife, Lucille, have two children, Kim, 8, and Kelly, 4.

Load of coal is O.K. though smoke is seen

ALMA, Wis. — Smoke from a bargeload of coal, docked at Dairyland Power Cooperative, which was believed to be on fire is a somewhat normal occurrence and will not result in the loss of the coal, a spokesman from the Cooperative said.

The coal was loaded onto the barge two months ago and had begun smoldering due to the weight of the coal which eventually heats up when compressed, the spokesman said. He added that this is not an unusual occurrence.

The barge is being unloaded and samples are being taken to determine the BTU loss in the coal.

Federal aviation officials upset by closing plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal aviation officials say there will be a reduction of safety under a proposed closing of the FAA flight service station at Wausau, Wis.

Rep. David Obey, D-Wis., said he has received a letter from FAA administrator Alexander Butterfield, explaining that the station is one of 30 in the country scheduled to close during fiscal 1974.

Butterfield said there are only 26 aircraft based at Wausau and the number is expected to decline.

He said the Green Bay, Wis., flight service station would take over services which have been handled at Wausau.

Obey and state aviation officials are protesting the elimination of the 10-man Wausau station, which provides weather data and handles flight plans.

Government takes sealed bids on air force station

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
CHANDLER, Minn. (AP) — The federal government is trying to sell Chandler Air Force Station, former home of the 787th Radar Squadron.

The 43-acre site, built in 1951 at a cost of $3.3 million, was closed in 1971. In addition, homes for 220 station personnel were constructed at an additional outlay of $307,000.

The government Services Administration is not saying what the value of the property is now. The property includes 30 buildings and 21 homes. The government is taking sealed bids.

National Guard units arrive at camp for training

CAMP RIPLEY, Minn. (AP) — Nearly 8,000 members of the 47th Infantry Division of the Minnesota National Guard have arrived at Camp Ripley to begin their two-week annual summer training.

The guardsmen will train under simulated combat conditions at the 53,000-acre military reserve and become familiar with new equipment.

Brig. Gen. William Lundberg, assistant division commander, said the troop movement Saturday from various parts of the state went very smoothly.

RETURN FROM TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Votruba 1625 W. King St., have returned home from a tour of the southern states.

Coin box broken into at theater

City police are investigating a theft from the State Theater, 170 Johnson St., which occurred late Friday night or Saturday morning, according to Chief Robert Carstenbrock.

It is believed that someone hid in the theater after the final movie Saturday. The door to an office was smashed and the pop machine was pried open and the coin box with an undetermined amount of change was taken.

SEVERAL juveniles were picked up for curfew violation early Saturday morning. A 16-year-old Goodview boy, a 16-year-old Winona boy and a 15-year-old Winona boy were turned over to juvenile authorities on the curfew charge and a 17-year-old Winona boy was charged with trespassing in the vicinity of 218 Market St.

Mark Duran, 721 W. Howard St., reported vandalism to a stone fireplace in the rear of 178 E. Howard St. The fireplace had been smashed sometime during the past few days and damage was estimated at $50.

Chris Speltz, Rollingsstone, reported the theft of her purse about 1:15 a.m. Saturday between the Levee Bar, 115 Main St., and West King and Howard streets. She said she was riding in a friend's car and they gave an unknown man a lift to 9th and Main. She later discovered her purse was missing. It contained $9 in cash and personal items.

Police discovered a broken window in the scale house at Kujak Harbor early Sunday morning. Damage was estimated at $15.

MARY ANN HIPPENGER, 508 W. Wabasha St., is missing a checkbook, drivers license, so called security card and several pictures contained in a billfold which was taken from her purse while she was sunbathing at Lake Park near the tennis courts Saturday. The billfold was turned in to the police station by three unknown girls.

Tony Masopohl, 703 E. 4th St., reported the theft of a green boys 24-inch bicycle with banana seat from the rear of his home Friday night. The make is unknown but the vehicle carries license number 1147. Value was listed at $50.

Patricia Orniston, 502 1/2 E. Broadway, is missing a Toronado girls-style blue bicycle with a front basket. It was taken from in front of Ted Mader Drugs, East 3rd and Lafayette streets, about 9 p.m. Saturday. The bicycle is valued at $20 and carries a Iowa license plate.

Winona Deaths

Miss Myra Brouillette

Miss Myra Brouillette, 88, Tampa, Fla., formerly of Winona, died June 9 in Tampa following a short illness.

Christening of Great Lakes vessel slated

LORAIN, Ohio (AP) — The William R. Roesch, the first Great Lakes vessel to be completed under provisions of the Merchant Marine Act of 1970, will be christened next Friday at the American Ship Building Co.'s Lorain shipyard.

The Roesch will be one of two new self unloaders operated by Kinsman Marine Transit Co. to transport ore from Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. It will carry tonnage pellets from mines on Lake Superior and Lake Michigan to the J&L Cleveland Works dock on the Cuyahoga River.

The new vessel is named for the chairman and president of J&L and will be christened by his wife, Helen Roesch.

Delivery of the vessel is planned about June 30.

The Roesch has a capacity of 19,500 tons of tonnage ore and its self-unloading machinery is expected to handle more than 5,000 tons an hour.

Thunderstorms, rain invade area

Spring began its last week today with the familiar rumble of thunderstorms and patter of rain, a pattern that may continue right into summer.

The seasons will officially change at 8:01 a.m. Thursday.

After days of hot, muggy weather interspersed with light showers, the weather picture changed Sunday to produce one of the really beautiful days of the season.

After a Saturday night shower (that produced a scant .04 of an inch of rain, Sunday arrived clear, dry and cool. Sunday's official high was 76, a far cry from the muggy 89 logged Saturday.

By this morning clouds had returned, however, and a morning low of 59 was recorded under leaden skies that farther west were producing tornadoes.

An early morning tornado roared through Moline, Iowa, near Sioux City, killing two people and injuring several others.

As the storm system moved eastward along the Iowa-Minnesota border, tornadoes were spotted in the Waldorf, Minn., area, where a barn and garage were destroyed, and west of Austin, Minn.

The storm rumbled across Winona's skies most of the morning, producing high winds and 41 of an inch of rain by noon.

The winds prompted law enforcement officials to warn boaters to head for shelter, but there were no reports of wind damage here this morning.

The forecast calls for more of the same tonight, with the National Weather Service predicting a 60 percent chance of continued showers and thunderstorms—possibly severe—tonight and Tuesday.

The low tonight is expected to be in the upper 50s, with Tuesday's high in the 70s.

The establishment of a fire patrol and community building will be discussed.

Next time you see someone polluting, point it out.

It's litter in the streets. It's air that smells. It's a river where fish can't breathe.

You know what pollution is. But not everyone does. So the next time you see pollution, don't close your eyes to it. Write a letter. Make a call. Point it out to someone who can do something about it.

People start pollution. People can stop it.

Homosexuality is not a sickness

DEAR ABBY: About a year or so ago you came out with the statement that homosexuals are NOT sick. Please try to find it, and run it again. This is important to me. Thank you.

Dear Abby:
By Abigail Van Buren

DAILY READER IN S.F.

DEAR READER: Homosexuality is NOT a "sickness." There are homosexuals who live socially well-adjusted, discreet, personally happy lives, whose homosexuality would come as a surprise to many of their close heterosexual friends.

The fact that homosexuality is morally condemned by most people in our culture makes it seem abnormal. In other times and in other cultures it has not always been so judged.

Much of the maladjustment seen in homosexuals is due to the rejection, persecution and guilt imposed upon them by an intolerant and unenlightened society.

One who labels all homosexuals as sick does a grave disservice to a large segment of our population.

DEAR ABBY: I have a very good job as a secretary, and my problem is a husband who likes to phone me twice a day just to talk — about nothing. Maybe there is something wrong with me, but I would prefer that he didn't call me at work unless there was some reason for it.

I have never been told it was against the rules, but I get very uneasy hanging on the phone listening to his pointless chitchat. I have asked him not to call me just to talk but he does anyway, and I have a terrible time getting off the phone.

I just this minute got off the phone with him, after cutting him very short saying I was in the middle of something important, so he called me right back to finish a long-drawn-out, boring story, so I cut him short again.

I offered to quit my job so I could stay home and talk to him whenever he wants for as long as he wants but he didn't like the idea.

How should I handle this? I am very upset.

BUGGED IN THE BRONX

DEAR BUGGED: How old is your husband? He sounds like a pestiferous little boy. Tell him his calls are upsetting you and to please cease and desist. And if he calls you anyway, keep cutting him shorter and shorter until he gets the message.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday I received a nasty letter from my mother. She tore me apart because I forgot to send my father a card or some kind of remembrance on his birthday. (I skipped my mind until the next day, so I called up to apologize. My father seemed to understand, but my mother was furious. Now comes this letter telling me I'm a thoughtless, ungrateful, selfish kid, and she'd never forgive me.

Abby, I felt just terrible. I have been supporting myself for nearly a year. I live 200 miles from home and have a very good paying job for a kid my age (I'm 19). My folks were always so proud of me — until now.

When I got mom's letter I dashed off one to her saying if that's the way she felt about me I would get out of her life. Now I'm sorry I sent it.

Do you think she'll forgive me? What should I do now?

FEELING LOW

DEAR FEELING: Of course she'll forgive you. Write her again and tell her that you wrote that letter before you had a chance to cool off. She'll understand. You probably inherited your hot temper from her.

DEAR ABBY: To the poor woman whose husband forces his harmonica playing on everyone even though he can't play. Make a tape recording of one of his performances. He might realize how awful he is when it's played back to him privately.

This also works for teeth-clickers, snorers, ahem-ers, cursers, etc. I never believed I had a southern accent until I heard myself on tape.

Your horoscope — Jeane Dixon

For TUESDAY, June 19

Your birthday today: Long-running issues in your life culminate during this coming year of personal adventure. Share the joy of every passing moment. Today's natives are impulsive, positive, expansive, often original in ideas.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Find time for exercise and meditation despite a busy schedule. Associates and friends tend to unusual cooperation.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Pleasure is where you find it, in brief moments on the job or on a specially arranged personal holiday.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): You have more factors going for you than meet the eye. Property and home should be uppermost in your mind.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Political tides run in your favor, locally, in accord with your recent expressions. News helps to settle your mind.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Cooperation is the key to all around success as you share the glory with others. Technical counsel is helpful.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): This may seem a slow day. However, many quiet, routine deeds of the moment are permanent advances for the future.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Do at least as much listening as anybody else, if not more. In every argument there's a major error.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Persuasive talk should not substitute for definite facts and figures in your business dealings.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): This promises to be one of your easier days — use every moment constructively. Heed mate's ideas.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Collect what you've earned while the taking is feasible. Close out a speculative venture.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Despite possible lack of energy make yourself heard. Use your best thoughts and persuasive powers.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): You have some support from those who say little while doing a great deal. Clear neglected routines early.

Pickwick OES

Bill goes to hearing

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — In what appeared to be a race against the clock, backers of a newsman's shield law and a stronger open-meetings statute carried their cause to a state Senate committee hearing today in Ashkosh.

Sen. Gerald Lorge of Bear Creek said he set the hearing by his Judiciary and Insurance Committee for the University of Wisconsin — Oshkosh campus here in order to obtain maximum grass-roots exposure on the measures.

Two of the proposals were introduced in January. Some legislators said they felt the shield and open-meetings proposal would be lost in the shuffle if the legislature reaches agreement on a 1973-75 state budget by July 1 and recesses for the summer.

One shield law proposal, sponsored by Sen. Fred Riser of Madison and by Rep. Edward Nager of Madison, provides that no newsman would be required to disclose his confidential sources of information in any governmental proceeding.

The same two Democrats are backing an open-meetings bill which would provide penalties of $200 for public officials who violate the state prohibition against secret meetings.

Another bill would set the maximum penalty at $5,000.

Law requires meetings be open to the public, unless purchases or personnel matters are being discussed. The law carries no penalties.

One of the bills would prohibit formal action from being deliberated by a public agency during the same calendar day or within 12 hours after a closed session.

The existing law prohibits deliberations during the same calendar day.

State Rep. Anthony Earl, D-Wausau, said a joint Senate-House conference committee might reach an agreement on the disputed $2.7 billion budget proposal this week or next.

If it does, Earl said, the legislature probably will enact the budget and recess until fall.

That would leave most pending bills, including those on the shield and open meetings, hanging until legislators return for a fall session in October.

Earl, a member of the conference committee, said he thought most lawmakers were of a mind to settle the budget controversy. Failure to do so would mean "a long, drawn out, late summer session," he said.

"The alternative to a speedy solution is so unpalatable to everyone that I do not see how we could not reach an early decision on the budget," Earl said.

YMCA swimming schedule set

Swimming lessons for youth members of the YMCA will run continuously through Aug. 10.

A child who is a member may be enrolled at any time during the summer. The schedule: beginning minnows, Tuesday and Thursday, 10:45-11:30 a.m.; advanced minnows, Monday and Wednesday, 10:10-10:45 a.m.; fish, Tuesday and Thursday, 10:10-10:45 a.m.; shark and porpoise, Wednesday, 2:30-3:15 p.m., and Friday, 1:30-2:15 p.m.

There are still openings for YMCA Day Camp, open to all youth from third through seventh grades. The second session will be from June 25 through July 6; the third session, July 9-20, and the final session, July 23 through Aug. 3.

Information may be obtained by contacting the YMCA.

Enlistment bonus fails to attract volunteers

WASHINGTON (AP) — An increased enlistment bonus failed to draw enough volunteers into the Army and Marine ground combat army during the first month of a new test.

Preliminary figures show the two services signed up 1,534 young men for combat jobs in May, some 900 below their combined goal for the month.

The failure to meet the assigned goal underscores the military's tough problem of getting young men to enlist for service in the infantry, armor and artillery.

About a year ago, the Pentagon ordered the Army and Marines to test a $1,500 bonus for a four-year enlistment. After 10 months, the results were disappointing, so defense chiefs raised the bonus to $2,500 for a test in May and June.

The Pentagon's authority to offer such enlistment bonuses of up to $3,000 will die at the end of this month and the outcome of the two-month test of the $2,500 bonus could weigh heavily in Congress' decision whether to extend the legislation another two years.

Failure of the test would underscore doubts held by certain key military officers and civilian officials about the ability of the services, chiefly the Army, to maintain their strength without the draft.

Overall, the enlistment situation didn't change much in May.

Astronauts set new space record

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Skylab 1 astronauts today became history's longest-flying space travelers.

Though almost grounded last month by problems with their orbiting laboratory, Charles Conrad Jr., Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz smashed a mark set two years ago by three Soviet cosmonauts.

At 3:22 a.m. EDT, the trio surpassed the single mission record of 23 days, 18 hours, 22 minutes logged in June 1971 by Soyuz 11.

The Russian flight ended tragically when all three crewmen died during earth re-entry because of a faulty hatch seal that caused rapid decompression of the Soyuz cabin.

The Americans were 275 miles above Africa when they set the new standard.

As they set the mark, Conrad, Kerwin and Weitz still had four days of their flight left. Their space journey started out in deep trouble, but was saved by the skill and daring of the astronauts on ingenious repair assignments.

They are to dispatch their Apollo ferry ship from the 118-foot long Skylab Friday, aiming for a splashdown in the Pacific Ocean about 800 miles southwest of San Diego at 9:46 a.m. EDT after 28 days, 48 minutes in space.

Their record isn't expected to last long. On July 27 the Skylab 2 crew is to rocket to the same station for 56 days to continue medical, scientific and earth resources experiments started by Skylab 1.

And in October, the Skylab 3 astronauts are to visit the station, also for 56 days.

The Skylab 1 crew plans its last solar astronomy research today.

On Tuesday Conrad will take a space walk to retrieve film from the eight telescopes that have been taking detailed photographs of the sun. Included are pictures of a giant flare observed last Friday.

Conrad, assisted by Weitz, will step through an airlock hatch and climb a ladder to reach the film vaults outside.

the lab. He'll also install new film for the Skylab 2 team.

After Tuesday's space stroll, the astronauts will spend two days deactivating systems and re-reading the workshop for Skylab 2.

"We're slowly but surely closing this 'baby' down," said flight director Neil Hutchinson.

On Sunday, the astronauts received a telephone call from President Nixon and Father's Day greetings from their families.

It was also Conrad's 20th wedding anniversary, and Mrs. Conrad and three of the four Conrad sons visited mission control for a phone conversation.

"Happy anniversary," Jane Conrad told her husband. "You were thinking ahead. You sent me 20 red roses."

"I wasn't thinking that far ahead," Conrad confessed. "I ordered them from here by secret communicator."

EXPERIENCE AND YOUTH . . . Chuck Schaaf holds the two trophies he took back to his Chetek, Wis., home after this team won a pair of pulling contests at the event sponsored by the Fountain City Rod and Gun Club. To capture his two crowns, Schaaf went with a blend of experience and youth and teamed Cutie, a 16-year-old mare, with a six-year-old in his first competition. The combination worked and Cutie chalked up her 200th win. (La Croix Johnson photo)

Caledonia miss crowned princess in Houston Co.

SPRING GROVE, Minn. (Special) — Miss Judith Meyer, 18, Caledonia, Minn., was crowned Houston County Dairy Princess during June Nickel Dairy Day at Spring Grove Sunday.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Meyer, Caledonia, she was sponsored by Link's Dairy and Refrigeration Caledonia.

MISS MADGE Stapleton, Caledonia, 1972 Princess Kay of the Milky Way, and Miss Jackie Tweeten, 1972 Houston County Dairy Princess performed the crowning ceremonies.

First runner-up was Miss Jean Wiegrefe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Wiegrefe, Caledonia, sponsored by Houston County Farm Bureau.

Miss Beth Lewis daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lewis, Caledonia, was second runner-up. She was sponsored by Schroeder Jewelry, Caledonia.

Master of ceremonies for the afternoon festivities held at the Spring Grove City Park was Robert Lewis, County Dairy Industries president.

GEORGE BLEXURD Spring Grove, was presented with a plaque honoring him as Butter-maker of the Year. Blexurd who is employed by Meadowland Dairies, received the award from the Houston County American Dairy Association.

Mrs. Al Grob, Caledonia, was named the first-place winner in the dairy dessert pie recipe contest held in the Spring Grove American Legion Hall.

Mrs. Robert Wiste, Spring Grove won second place and Mrs. Arlen Doely, Spring Grove, placed third.

Included in the afternoon's activities were games and booths of the children, a tug of war, butter churning demonstrations and a band concert by the Spring Grove High School Band.

Crisis telephone service opened by BIRTHRIGHT

The crisis telephone answering service of the Winona Chapter of BIRTHRIGHT opened today, with trained volunteers available to answer calls on a 24-hour seven-days-a-week basis.

By dialing 452-2421, a personalized recorded message will give the number of the volunteer on call.

The free, confidential, non-sectarian service, manned by volunteers in consultation with professional people and social service agencies in the Winona area, is dedicated to bringing together the distressed woman and community resources waiting to assist her.

Schaaf's 'Cutie' takes 1st place

FOUNTAIN CITY, Wis. — Chuck Schaaf, Chetek, Wis., and his 16-year-old mare Cutie stole the hearts of the more than 2,000 people on hand here this weekend as the two teamed to win two of the three events in the annual Fountain City Rod and Gun Club horsepulling contest.

Cutie was teamed with a six-year-old that saw action for the first time and, under Schaaf's direction, the trio pulled to a pair of first-place finishes.

THERE WERE 19 teams entered in the three weight classes with Schaaf's horses coming away with the crown in the light class where weights are restricted to 2,800 pounds, and in the middleweight bracket, where weights are restricted to 2,800 to 3,200 pounds.

In the heavyweight class, with weights starting at 3,200 pounds, the title went to Bill Rosenthal, Elmwood, Wis., with Ron Miller, Ridgewood, Wis., second and John Koenig, Barron, Wis., third.

Kim Drost, Rice Lake, Wis., and Hugh Hampton, Spring Valley, Wis., finished behind Schaaf in the lightweight class while Rod Johnson, Osseo, Wis., and Rollie Drost, Rice Lake, were second and third in the middleweights.

Schaaf's team bettered four others in hauling more than 5,900 pounds in the lightweight pull while they came back to drag 5,600 pounds in the middleweight class to best eight other hitches. There were four teams behind Rosenthal's horses in the heavyweight class when his team hauled 6,900 pounds.

THE CROWD, at times five and six deep around the pulling area, delighted in the return of Cutie to the Mississippi River Valley. The mare was once owned by La Verne Putz, rural Fountain City, and Adrian Bick, Arcadia, Wis., but was sold some 13 years ago as "just another horse."

With the two championships this weekend, Cutie holds the state championship for the most wins in the lightweight class and has a state record of more than 200 wins in pulling competition.

While the horses did all the work, the crowd worked up an appetite and devoured more than 1,500 pieces of broiled chicken and 70 pounds of bratwurst.

Fanfani elected secretary-general

ROME (AP) — The president of the Italian senate, Amintore Fanfani, has been elected secretary-general of his Christian Democrat party.

Fanfani, who will have to resign the presidency to assume the new post, is a former promoter of Italy.

The Sunday election came as Italian President Giovanni Leone met with party leaders to solve a crisis that arose when Premier Giulio Andreotti resigned Tuesday.

Bank project wins award for restoration

Merchants National Bank of Winona's recent restoration project has drawn an award from a landmark preservation group in Richmond Va.

The bank, 102 E. 3rd St., was one of six recipients over the weekend of historic preservation awards from Help Encourage Landmark Preservation, Inc. (HELP).

The award was made at the national historic preservation group's annual meeting Saturday for its restoration of the bank's interior and exterior, completed in April 1972.

The bank was originally designed by the famous architectural firm of Purcell, Elmslie and Fick.

Sergei Troubetzky, president of HELP, praised the Merchants National Bank for "restoring one of the finest architectural landmarks remaining of the Prairie School of architecture."

He said, "The Merchants National Bank is to be commended for making such an important contribution to not only the city of Winona, but to the nation."

Other awards went to Louisa County, Va.; Washington, D.C.; Louisville, Ky.; Portland, Ore., and Richmond, Va.

Minneapolis man held in beating of Duluth man

BEMIDJI, Minn. (AP) — A 29-year-old Minneapolis man, captured after a mass search in Itasca State Park, was being held here today for questioning in the beating death of an elderly Duluth man.

The suspect was apprehended Sunday night in a wooded area near Hart Lake, just off Minn. 200 and 25 miles southwest of Bemidji.

He was sought in the May 9 beating death of Arnold Lampi, 62, Duluth.

Some 60 law enforcement officers had converged on the area after the man had been spotted in the afternoon. Authorities said he offered no resistance when caught.

"He had said he wouldn't be taken alive," a Highway Patrol spokesman said. "But he was given a chance and decided he'd just as soon walk out."

The man and a woman companion had been seen traveling in the area Friday, and authorities chased the couple's car at high speeds. The man stopped and fled into the woods, they said, while the woman was captured.

The woman, Dorothy Blair, 21, Minneapolis, was held on a charge of aggravated robbery. Lampi's body was found a few feet off the shoulder of U.S. 53, four miles north of Duluth. Another Duluth couple, George Olson, 55, and his wife Margaret, 51, were severely beaten. Lampi, the Olsons, the suspect and the Blair woman had been seen drinking together at a bar prior to the incident. The beatings occurred at Twigg, six miles north of Duluth.

DAIRY ROYALTY . . . Miss Judith Meyer, Caledonia, was crowned Houston County Dairy Princess during June Nickel Dairy Day at Spring Grove Sunday. On hand for the coronation ceremonies were Miss Madge Stapleton, 1972 Princess Kay of the Milky Way, and Miss Jackie Tweeten, 1972

Dona Eickhoff

Fillmore Co. Pork Queen crowned

By IRENE KIEHNE
Daily News correspondent

PRESTON Minn. — Dona Eickhoff 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Eickhoff, Fountain, received the title of 1973 Fillmore County Pork Queen here on Saturday evening.

The crown was placed on her head by last year's queen Charlene McCabe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McCabe.

THE SECOND annual contest, sponsored by the county

Pork Producers Association, was held in the Preston Town Hall.

The 1973 queen will represent the 750 county hog farmers in the state contest in January 1974.

Ch a riene's sister Shirley McCabe, was selected as runner-up to the 1973 queen.

Miss Eickhoff was sponsored by the Bicknese Elevator and Mill, Wy. D. Eickhoff koff. She received a bouquet of red roses from Cheryl Huelkamp, Austin, Minnesota State Pork Queen, and a $50 check from Merle Kiehne, treasurer of the Pork Producers Association.

SHIRLEY was presented a bouquet of yellow roses.

After Miss Eickhoff received her crown she presented a skit evolving around her parents'

farm, the Triple-"H."

Miss Eickhoff, who recently graduated from Wyckoff High School as an honor graduate, has been active in cheerleading, president of Drama Club, member of the National Honor Society, band, homecoming queen and band queen for Northeastern Iowa.

Both of her parents are pilots; they own a six-passenger airplane. Miss Eickhoff, who also has a pilot's license, loves to fly. She also enjoys sewing and experimenting with food recipes.

SHE HAS BEEN in 4-H for eight years and is currently serving as president. She sings in the junior choir at church, teaches Sunday school and is a member of the church group. This fall she will attend the University of Minnesota.

Shirley was sponsored by the Laneboro Livewires 4-H Club. She attends Laneboro High School and is a member of the 4-H. She has held local offices in the 4-H and serves as president of the federation.

SINCE THE AGE of 11, she has taken swine to the fair. Other activities in school: president of the student council, cheerleader, chorus, Future Homemakers of America and Future Farmers of America.

Next fall she will be a senior at Laneboro High School.

Charles Ruen, president of the county Pork Producers, was master of ceremonies.

Mrs. Duane Schrier, Fountain, is chairman of the Porkettes Association, an auxiliary of the Pork Producers.

The meal, which included pork chops, was prepared by Howard Gartner.

Judges of the queen contest were Mrs. Eugene Holst, Austin; Mrs. Arno Moenning, Dodge Center, and Harold Severson, Rochester.

Serving on the queen's committee were the Mmes. Schrier and Myron Kalstabaken, Fountain; Kenneth Vrieze, Racine; and Merle Kiehne, Laneboro.

House of the week

English tavern vacation home

By ANDY LANG

The promise of interesting vacation living is quite apparent in the authentic details of this scaled-down reproduction of an old English tavern.

Approaching this two-story house from a distance, one can't miss the projecting bay windows, dormer rooms, curtained gables and huge chimney. As the visitors arrive, they are greeted with a weather-protective passageway or portico where into which they can ride or walk. This is where the horse-drawn coaches of the past would discharge their guests in front of the double front entrance doors by the light of lanterns. The old cord pull-springtype bell would be an excellent feature to install here.

Inside the front doors, wooden beams, paneling and peg flooring make up the trophy foyer, where crossed swords and paraphernalia of old England would look right at home. A look into the living room (called a taverna by architect Rudolph A. Marten) exhibits more of the same, uncovering a story-and-a-half high ceiling, cathedral in shape and laced with beams. Even the structural valleys of the roof are evident.

A focal point of interest is always the architect's concern, but in this case there are several of them. The very wide brick and stone fireplace wall, 10' high, with big timber columns, qualifies as one. A second might be the pass-thru log storage space for the dual fireplaces. A flying buttress brick arch forms its head. The timber display shelf over the entrance arch is another focal area, accenting the balustraded low headroom balcony on the second floor. There are immense front and side bay windows, with window seats at the base of each. French doors allow access from here to the rear covered porch. A built-in barbecue provides outdoor cooking facilities.

In keeping with the entire atmosphere, the kitchen area has been called a "galley and grog room." It's a food preparation location with a combination eating and informal relaxing spot attached to it. If a separation of the two areas is required, a folding partition may be used. A raised fireplace adds to the decor, with sliding doors providing access to the rear porch.

Near the side service door is a lavatory, which can double as a powder room for guests, since it is adjacent to the front foyer.

A platformed stairway leads to the second floor. A balcony overlooking the living room below is the stair head. Two bedrooms at the front and rear provide the sleeping facilities, while a hall bathroom is shared by both. Both bedrooms have recessed dormer windows seats, but the front bedroom has two. A third dormer window in this front bedroom has a high planter shelf.

This is definitely an unusual leisure home for those who want something both different and practical.

INFORMALITY is the theme of this floor layout, with all rooms on the first floor geared for relaxation and enjoyment.

Bedroom wing upstairs extends out over covered passageway.

Regional manager of Air France is sentenced to jail

BANGKOK (AP) — Air France's regional manager was sentenced to one month in jail Thursday for illegal possession of 7,000-year-old Thai pottery.

D. Mimault, 40, was released on $1,500 bail pending appeal to a higher court.

Mimault pleaded guilty to being in possession of recently discovered Ban Chiang pottery, dating back almost 70 centuries.

Possession of Ban Chiang pottery is an offense against a government edict which says that all antiquities and artifacts discovered in the northeast district must be declared. Police said they found 81 pieces of pottery in Mimault's house and arrested him last week.

North America's only diamond mine is located near Murfreesboro, Ark.

EXTERIOR MATERIALS used on this leisure house require minimum maintenance. They are slate roof shingles, stucco siding, half timber decorative work, brick veneer and natural wavy siding.

Soybean promoters board members to be elected June 28

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The Minnesota Department of Agriculture will conduct an election June 28 to choose a 13-member Soybean Promotion Board.
 All soybean growers are eligible to participate and will vote at county extension offices.
 The department said Hennepin County growers should vote at the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service Office in Hamel.
 Voting hours will be 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Permits for new stores are drawn

Eighteen building permits and one wrecking permit were issued last week at the office of George Rogge, city building inspector.

Permits were drawn for two new houses and for the construction of a commercial building at Huff and West Sarnia streets.

Keith and Don Schwab and William Wleczorek drew a permit for the construction of a 75-by-60-foot one-story building at 615-619 Huff St. adjacent to the new Northwest Fabrics store, to house a convenience grocery and one other retail establishment. The building will be of masonry construction and air conditioned. Building estimate is $54,555.

Kendall Corporation, 113 Franklin St., received a permit for the construction of a one-story, wood-frame, three-bedroom, 65-by-40-foot home with attached garage at 1603 Valley View Drive. The structure will be heated by gas and estimated cost is $24,200.

Another house is being built by Alphonse Bambenek at 514 Wall St. The 54-by-46-foot structure is of split entry design and will have two bedrooms and an attached garage. The wood-frame structure will be heated by gas and cost is estimated at $23,300.

A permit was drawn for interior remodeling of the Home Furniture Co., 350 E. Sarnia St., at an estimated cost of $7,300.

Bruce McNally, 274 E. Broadway, drew a permit for the remodeling into three apartments of the old Alexander house at 274 E. Broadway. Remodeling is estimated at $5,000.

Gordon Fakler, 611 Market St., will add on to the rear of his home and move the garage on his property. Work will be done by McNally at an estimated cost of $4,312.

McNally is also contractor for a 9-by-42-foot addition on the

G-E-T chapter receives awards at convention

GALESVILLE, Wis. — The Gale-Eitrick-Trempealeau Future Farmers of America Chapter received numerous awards at the FFA convention June 11-13 at the American Baptist Assembly, Green Lake, Wis.

Richard Tisthammer represented section 3 in the state contest and the Gale-Eitrick-Trempealeau Chapter received a silver emblem rating and a large plaque for having one of the top chapters in the Building Our American Communities program.

The chapter also received a superior rating in the National Tisthammer FFA Chapter Award program. Paul Halderson, Timothy Hovre and James Sahlstrom received their Wisconsin Farmer degrees.

Jeff Kopp and Dan Evenson were the official delegates and were accompanied by adviser Donald P. Hendrickson.

Guests at the convention were Wayne Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. John Sahlstrom and family. Next week several Wisconsin Junior Dairywomen's members will attend the state convention and dairy show at Jefferson, Wis.

Challenge on GOP chairman seems likely

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — A challenge may arise when the Republican State Central Committee meets in Minneapolis June 22-23 to choose a new party chairman.

A nominating committee of state Republican leaders earlier in the week voted to support Lars Carlson of Minneapolis for the post.

Brown, a three-term legislator, was unable to turn the nominating committee to his view that the party needs a volunteer chairman instead of a full-time, paid official. Brown said day-to-day details of party operations could be handled by an executive secretary of the party.

The nominating committee voted to stay with the concept of a full-time chairman and also said the chairman should not be anyone holding public office.

The new state GOP chairman will succeed David Krogseng, who is not seeking another two-year term.

Andrew Nelson, 426 E. 5th St., siding, $1,100, Homer.

Lloyd Hunger, 101 E. Mark St., 12-by-13 patio at rear of house, $300.

Mrs. Edna Koehler, 368 Carimona St., remodeling at 816 W. Wabasha St., $550, Roy Christensen.

Ruth Novotny, 416 High Forest St., siding, $1,350, Northwest Aluminum Co.

Lyle Hutton, 529 1/2 E. Wabasha St., remodeling, $100.

WRECKING PERMIT: Roger Munson, 1026 Gilmore Ave., dismantle garage.

Building valuation so far this year totals $3,865,419, compared with $1,504,177 on this date one year ago.

Permits for 20 new houses have been drawn during the first 5 1/2 months of 1973.

For effect of fibers

Cities' drinking water probed

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — A hurried investigation begins today into possible harmful effects of asbestos fibers in the drinking water of Duluth and three other Lake Superior communities.

Dr. Irving Selikoff, an asbestos expert from Mt. Sinai Hospital in New York, has been ordered to complete the study over a two-week period rather than in the originally planned eight weeks.

Selikoff will compare tissues of deceased human subjects from the Lake Superior area with tissues of a control group from out of state to determine whether there is a concentration of asbestos in tissues of lake area residents and, if so, what the significance is.

The microscopic asbestos fibers are known to cause cancer when inhaled with air but it is not known what effect they have, if any, when swallowed with water or food.

The order to speed up the investigation was made Saturday by U.S. District Judge Miles Lord, Minneapolis.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) said Friday it believed the source of asbestos fibers found in Lake Superior to be talc tailings discharged into the lake by the Reserve Mining Co. at Silver Bay, Minn.

The EPA said "there is no conclusive evidence to show that the present drinking water is unfit for human consumption," but added that an alternative water supply should be found for very young children.

Other communities mentioned in the report were Silver Bay, Beaver Bay and Two Harbors.

Judge Lord tries a case next month in which the federal government seeks to halt Reserve from discharging 67,000 tons of the waste rock daily into Lake Superior.

Rep. John Blatnik, D-Minn., said the decision to speed up the study was reached Friday in a discussion involving Lord, Selikoff, EPA personnel, state officials from Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan and representatives of Reserve.

"The public interest demands an immediate, decisive response to remove doubt, forestall speculation and prepare for whatever course of action may be required," Blatnik said Saturday.

Also today, the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (PCA) meets to consider the matter. The PCA has the authority to issue an emergency order to shut down the plant if findings support such action.

Reserve could appeal the decision to the state district court.

The deputy director of the PCA, Dr. Charles Carson, said a PCA study that indicated asbestos-type minerals were being discharged into the air and into Lake Superior from the Reserve plant was a closely guarded secret that even the PCA board did not know about.

Carson said Saturday that the nine-member board wasn't informed that the survey was being made because of fear that premature release of the information could lead to what he termed public "panic."

Duluth Mayor Ben Boo was very upset about the disclosure that his city's water supply was contaminated.

"If I appear to be very calm right now it's merely an illusion, because I'm violent," he said Sunday on a national television panel in San Francisco, while attending the National Conference of Mayors.

"I'm extremely violent of the fact that we had to suddenly put our youngsters on special water," he added. "We can't use the water...it's just unacceptable. I think it's got to be corrected if it can be corrected."

Youth drowns in Minnesota River

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 The body of a youth who drowned in the Minnesota River was recovered Sunday.

The youth Larry Kendall 17, Garden City, Minn., disappeared about 7:30 a.m. Saturday while swimming with friends.

They told authorities they tried to keep Kendall from being dragged under by the river currents. The body was found about 80 feet downstream in about 16 feet of water.

A 14-year-old St. Paul boy drowned in Lake Phalen Saturday afternoon.

Authorities identified the victim as Jeffrey Weidner. Attempts to revive him were unsuccessful.

Most people are paying too much for new homes. (and they'll pay more tomorrow).

We don't think you should.

- Housing costs are going up.
 Because of our large operation, Wausau Homes can buffer the home-buyer from rising costs. We can assure you of the price that appears on your contract. And, where other manufacturers have jumped prices considerably, our increases have been extremely modest — so that some builders even say we're under-priced.
- Unexpected added costs often take the buyer by surprise.
 The so called easy finishing of some housing packages often leads to added expense, plus you have the inconvenience of sawdust living. At Wausau Homes we put it all together — plumbing, heating, electrical work, paneled walls, decorator designed bathrooms, cathedral beamed ceilings, plus much more. So look at the product and the total finished costs.
- Most builders are forced to react to month by month inflationary trends.
 We don't have to be at the mercy of monthly inflationary price hikes. At Wausau Homes, we give you a set price based on volume buying with long term purchase contracts with our material sources.
- Delaying your decision can be costly.
 Wausau Homes costs will continue to be lower than comparable competitive housing, but it still pays to sign your home contract today. Not only is the basic savings yours, but as other prices rise and yours stays stable you can realistically call the difference in dollars — "savings." And you can buy now and have your home erected later . . . when you're ready. Wausau Homes are worth waiting for. Maintenance is low, appreciation grows steadily. And you're building valuable equity, at a per month payment that could well be lower than what you're paying now. All great pluses compared to older homes or cramped mobile home living with built-in depreciation and high heating bills.
- Manufactured housing is now proven to be equal or of better quality than conventional housing.
 At Wausau Homes we use a controlled construction process. We build our homes in the factory, out of the weather, so we can control all areas of materials and construction. And we continually test and research new materials. If we find a better way to construct your home — we're going to do it. Take the Titan III™, our stressed-skin floor panel. It's structurally three times stronger than need be — and it allows us to build homes that are more reasonably priced. Thousands of installations prove its merits.
- The need for better housing at fair prices may not be the long range goal of many builders.
 It has always been our corporate goal to provide quality, in attractive permanent housing to anyone who wants it. We now offer over 75 designs in 2, 3, 4, and 5 bedroom homes, priced from $12,000 to $45,000. We pioneered concepts like our H.E.P. CORE™ — a mechanical system which incorporates heating, electrical and plumbing work into a single unit. The cost savings over hiring a plumber, electrician and heating expert are evident. And this type of innovative thinking carries through our entire process.
- People fail to understand the advantages of manufacturing cycles.
 At Wausau Homes, our peak selling time is summer. So when summer is over, instead of facing our people with layoffs, we offer a premium with some of our homes. Take our appliance offer for example. When the home-buyer accepts delivery the first three months of the year he gets a free Whirlpool refrigerator, oven, exhaust hood, dishwasher and range top. So we keep our factories rolling during the winter and the home owner is the winner.

Compare. And see why Wausau Homes is the best value for your investment dollar.

Do something special for you and your family. Take a few brief moments and send for our full color catalog. It's free. And it could well save you thousands of dollars in housing costs. Copyright 1973, Wausau Homes, Inc.

Miller feasts on U.S. Open course

By WILL GRIMSLEY
OAKMONT, Pa. (AP) — "When I get it going," said young John Miller, "all I think about is birdies. I'm not going for pars, I'm going for birdies. That's why on the tour they call me Joe Feast or Famine."

The stringbean 26-year-old Mormon from San Francisco with the unruly shock of golden hair, the 1973 U.S. Open champion, is typical of the game's new breed—bold, aggressive, unafraid of the Devil himself.

Going into Sunday's final round over the aged Oakmont Country Club golf course, it looked as if any one of a dozen guys might win the prestigious title—but one of them wasn't.

Miller, six shots off the pace, discouraged over a scatter-shot third-round 76 and by his own admission "absolutely without desire."

It was a dramatic lineup indeed for the stretch run — Arnold Palmer, the people's choice, and 53-year-old Julius Boros tied with outsiders John Schlee and Jerry Heard for the lead, followed by gangling Tom Weiskopf, Lee Trevino, Bob Charles, Jim Colbert, Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player.

Palmer excited his wild vociferous army by leading momentarily early in the last round, then the old, smooth-swinging Boros surged to the front briefly—but one of them wasn't.

Weiskopf, Schlee and the others made their pitch, but at the end of the day it was John Miller who stood on the victory rostrum with the $35,000 winner's check and the prospect of turning it into a million in the next 12 months.

He did it by shooting an Open record-63 over a course that has broken the spirits of some of the greatest figures in golf.

He did it by spewing out birdies in clusters—four in a row to start the round—and four more in the space of five holes on the incoming nine.

There were nine birdies in all, with one bogey, and the fire was so fierce that it burned off all of the challengers.

Miller won with 279, a stroke ahead of Schlee, whose chip from the fringe on the final green missed by an inch and a half from forcing a playoff, and two ahead of Weiskopf at 281.

Palmer, after his early charge, fell back into a tie with defending champion Jack Nicklaus and two-time winner Lee Trevino with 282.

Miller was planning to caddle at Olympic in 1968 before he qualified. He played instead, was in contention all the way and finished eighth. He missed the cut in 1967, didn't qualify in 1968. He played the next three years, finishing 30th, fifth and seventh, respectively.

He's the first former U.S. junior champion to win the Open. He has won two tournaments but never before this year had he attained the $100,000 mark in earnings. He now has approximately $114,000.

Here are the final scores and money winners:

Johnny Miller	$35,000	71-69-74-65-279
John Schlee	$18,000	71-74-67-70-280
Tom Weiskopf	$12,000	71-67-69-70-281
Arnold Palmer	$9,000	71-71-66-72-282
Lee Trevino	$8,000	70-72-70-70-282
Jack Nicklaus	$9,000	71-69-74-68-282
Jerry Heard	$4,000	74-70-66-73-283
Julius Boros	$4,000	74-69-68-73-283
Lanny Wadkins	$4,000	74-69-75-65-283
Jim Colbert	$4,000	70-68-74-72-284

CLINCHES TITLE IN CLENCHING STYLE . . . Johnny Miller, 26, of Hilton Head Island, S.C., clenches his fist as he sank a putt on the 18th green to win the U.S. Open Golf championship at Oakmont, Pa., Country Club after a record breaking round, coming from six strokes behind with a 72-hole total of 279. ## Schlee guessed wrong

OAKMONT Pa. (AP) — John Schlee guessed wrong. He told himself a one-under-par final round would be good enough for his first major golf title.

What the tall 34-year-old, a Colorado native, didn't anticipate was a record 63 by U.S. Open victor John Miller Sunday. But he was happy to be the runner-up.

"I'm just fortunate to be where I am," he said of his final round of 70 for a 280, one more stroke than Miller.

"It's great to be the runner-up."

Schlee, whose best previous finish in seven tour years was second in the 1965 St. Paul Open, was paired with Arnold Palmer and admitted Arnie's Army was a problem.

"I just couldn't settle down," he said. "Every hole the chant was 'Arnie, Arnie.' Gary Player said not to listen, but there are some things you just can't shut out."

He believed he was going to win after drilling in a 10-foot birdie two on the 16th, moving to within one of Miller, already in the clubhouse.

"I felt I would win walking up 16, up 17, but not 18," he said of the pressurized finish for America's most prestigious golf title.

Schlee said the 11th hole proved to be the demise of Palmer.

"He putted out, looked at the scoreboard and was shocked to see he wasn't leading," Miller was. "It took the fire right out of him," Schlee said of Palmer, who bogeyed the next three holes.

Quilici miffed at close calls; Twins lose 6-0

By LARRY PALADINO
DETROIT (AP)—Frank Quilici and Joe Decker were both miffed at the way plate umpire Larry Barnett called balls and strikes Sunday.

Mickey Lolich wasn't. But at least Minnesota manager Quilici can be happy about one thing as his Twins begin a seven-game home stand tonight with a game against Texas—they ended a three-game skid Friday in Detroit and took two of three from the Bengals to stand just one-half game behind front-running Chicago in the American League West.

"Overall we've been playing good and scoring some runs," Quilici said in the Twins' clubhouse after Minnesota was shut out 6-0 by Lolich and the Tigers before a crowd of 52,622.

Decker, the Twins' starter who gave up five runs in 6 1-3 innings to even his record at 1-1, said of Barnett:

"You see all those sliders I threw on the outside corner he called balls? He was calling the same ones strikes for Lolich."

Quilici nodded agreement. Moments earlier he said, "there were a lot of close calls. But how come they were all against us?"

Lolich, meanwhile, has another feather in his cap. He moved into a tie for the all-time Tiger shutout lead with 34, striking out a season-high 11 and spacing nine hits in the triumph.

It was the veteran left-hander's second shutout of the season and fifth triumph in his last six games but only the fourth for the Tigers in their last 11. He now has 10 complete games in a 7-6 record, including six of his last seven.

Detroit is fourth in the American League East, two games behind leader Milwaukee and one-half behind third-place New York.

"It'll be a seesaw battle all the way," Tiger Manager Billy Martin said. "You can be fifth one day and first the next."

Quilici is expected to send Bill Hands, 5-6, to the mound for tonight's game against Texas, the first of a three-game series against the struggling Rangers. California comes in for four games starting Thursday.

A 15-5 clubbing by Milwaukee kept the West-leading Chicago White Sox only one-half game ahead of the Twins.

Lolich now is tied with Tommy Bridges and George Mullin for Tiger shutout honors. He is the second best active shutout pitcher in the American League.

"Think about the history of this club," he said. "It goes back a long way and when you have any record like that it means something. It's a feather in your cap. One more shutout and everyone has to catch me."

At Kaline drove in two runs for Detroit, staking Lolich to a 1-0 lead in the third with a bounce single over third baseman Steve Braun's head. The hit scored Mickey Stanley who had singled and taken second on Gates Brown's ground out.

Norm Cash homered to open the fourth off Decker, who was the victim of three runs in the seventh. Stanley singled home one after a safety by Ed Brinkman and a double by Aurelio Rodriguez. Brown singled in a tally and Kaline hit a sacrifice fly.

An infield single by Dick McAuliffe, a ground out, and Rodriguez' single produced the final run in the eighth.

But shaky start tells Merchants

Wiltgen almost outduels Babe Fink

Pat Wiltgen nearly outpitched Babe Fink Sunday night. In fact, had it not been for a shaky start he may well have thrown a shutout against his talent young mound opponent in a Tri-State League contest played in Gabrych Park.

But Wiltgen, who helped lead the Winona Merchants to the Minnesota State Amateur Baseball Tournament last year, gave up four runs in the first inning after hitting two batters and allowing three hits. AFTER THAT the strong righthander held New Albin, Iowa, scoreless for ten straight innings before Joe Fink cracked a three-run homer in the top of the 12th inning to give Babe and his teammates a 7-4 victory.

The loss was the first in three loop games for the Merchants and the third straight for the defending Region 19B champions. The team is now 3-5 overall and will play again Wednesday night, traveling to Stevens Point, Wis., for a non-league tilt.

Babe Fink, who is currently pitching for unbeaten Kee High School of Lansing, Iowa, in addition to playing for Caledonia's American Legion team and New Albin, went the full 12 innings, scattering 11 hits, allowing just two earned runs, walking none and fanning 11. "It's always nice to beat Winona," remarked the 18-year-old lefthander, recalling how he helped deprive the Winona Lejets of a trip to the American Legion State Tournament last Aug. 5 by tossing a seven-hitter in Caledonia's 4-1 victory in the First District playoff finals.

NEW ALBIN LED 4-0 going in the bottom of the first inning after Don Imhof was hit by a pitch and both he and Bob Heiderscheit were safe on a fielder's choice. Wiltgen got Dave Darling on a pop to short, and he struck out clean-up hitter Mike Heiderscheit.

But the Winona hurler beamed Joe Fink and back-to-back singles by Kerry and Jay Darling accounted for four quick runs, the kind of cushion that's generally enough for a pitcher of Fink's caliber.

The Merchants got to Fink for one run in the bottom of the first when Mike Schultz stroked a double and came around to score on a single by Doug Sauer. The base hit by Sauer was his first of four for the team.

The host team cut the margin to 4-3 in the fourth inning when Sauer tagged a leadoff single, stole second and came in on a single by Loren Benz. Benz also scored when the centerfielder misplayed the ball.

WINONA TIED IT in the seventh after Steve Wiltgen reached on an error and went to third on a hit by Fred Beck that resulted in a throwing error.

With Bob Bestul at the plate, the squeeze sign was given, and Bestul managed to pop the ball over the third baseman's head enabling Wiltgen to score easily.

Tweedy celebrates again as Riva Ridge wins race

BOSTON (AP) — Secretariat and Riva Ridge are a dream 1-2 punch for any owner, trainer and jockey. Champagne victory celebrations become almost routine.

Penny Tweedy, owner of Meadow Stables, trainer Lucien Laurin and veteran jockey Ron Turcotte celebrated again Sunday after Riva Ridge equaled a track record set by the great Whirlaway in winning the $50,050 Massachusetts Handicap at Suffolk Downs.

"It's nice to have Riva Ridge get some attention again," Mrs. Tweedy said. "You know, he was used to it last year."

Turcotte, once a teen-aged lumberjack in Canada, is amassing a fortune, along with Mrs. Tweedy and Laurin, as the rider of both Secretariat, this year's Triple Crown winner, and Riva Ridge, who just missed the Triple Crown in 1972.

How does he rate the horses? "I won't compare this horse with Secretariat," Turcotte replied. "They're both great horses. Riva Ridge has a lot of good races left in him. Of course Secretariat is retiring to stud later this year."

Riva Ridge who missed the Triple Crown in a loss to Bee Bee Bee on a muddy strip in the Preakness last year,

A rational alternative to rationing gas.

What's right with this picture? Well if it were true, we'd be saving 28 billion, 560 million gallons of gas every year.

How did we arrive at that figure? Since we're a nation of national averages, we know the average car uses about 735 gallons of gas a year. The Beetle, 399*. Turn the eighty-five million average cars on the road right now into Beetles, and it works out to a saving of 28,560,000,000 (give or take a few gallons).

Now we haven't figured out all the water and antifreeze that would be saved with the Beetle's air-cooled engine.

Nor can we compute the extra parking space that would be around.

Not to mention all the money people would be able to save in a world of Volkswagens.

But we know for sure that this is no pipe dream. There already are police car Beetles up in Ossining. And a custom built, chauffeur-driven Bug in L. A. And Volkswagen taxis all over Honduras. And a Beetle that herds cattle in Missouri.

So with gas prices going up and rationing becoming a reality, the Beetles never looked so good. In fact, you might almost call it beautiful.

Few things in life work as well as a Volkswagen.

Lahoud, Brewers smother Chisox

CHICAGO (AP) — "I just hope I can produce every time I play so that I can force them to play me every day," said outfielder Joe Lahoud after helping the Milwaukee Brewers smother the Chicago White Sox 15-5 Sunday to extend their winning streak to nine games.

If Lahoud continues to produce as he did Sunday, there's no way anyone can keep him out of the lineup.

Lahoud took a .137 average into the game and smashed two home runs, including his first major league grand slam, to drive in six runs. Young Darrell Porter, also unloaded a grand slam homer in the rout and, ironically, it was an injury to catcher Ellie Rodriguez which placed Lahoud and Porter in position for their heroics.

With Rodriguez around, Porter has had little chance to catch and has been employed as the designated hitter. With Rodriguez nursing an injured knee, Porter took over as catcher and Lahoud got the chance as designated hitter.

Manager Del Crandall saw the performances of Porter and Lahoud as typical of the current spirit and enthusiasm of the Brewers who have taken over first place in the American League East by winning 14 of their last 15 games.

"Lahoud has felt left out and it's tremendous for him to come through like this when he gets the opportunity," said Crandall.

"It's unfortunate for Porter that we have Rodriguez around," said Crandall. "Darrell is ready to play major league baseball but Ellie is doing everything and I have to keep him in the lineup."

Porter is willing to bide his time saying "After all, I'm only 21 and have a lot of years ahead of me. I know I'm going to play a bunch, I'll get my chance. Sure, I want to catch but Ellie's doing such a great job and since we keep winning, I don't mind. As long as I'm the designated hitter against righthanders.

"Sure, Ellie has been a big help to me," continued Porter. "He sat with me today and went over the entire White Sox team. He's helped me a lot. I'm for him and he's for me. That's why we're winning because this is a close knit team."

The attitudes of Porter and Lahoud seem typical of the Brewers' makeup this season and Crandall summed it up by saying "This team has desire, attitude and everyone is pulling for the other player."

Crandall sidestepped many questions and finally explained "I don't want to glorify myself but also I don't want to be over modest."

While the Brewers are ramping. Their loss to the Brewers was their 10th in the last 15 games including six to Milwaukee. Nevertheless, they managed to hold their half game lead in the American League West as Detroit defeated Minnesota, 6-0.

Caledonia club wins slow-pitch softball title

Jack's Drive Inn of Caledonia held off Shorty's D & J Lounge of Winona 11-7 Saturday night to claim the team title in the Winona Men's Slow-Pitch Tournament held at Athletic Park.

Shorty's, one of the teams tied for first in the city's Open Slow-Pitch League, knocked off the Wildcat Inn of Neillville, Wis., 13-10 and Crisler's of St. Paul 13-12 en route to the finals.

Jack's nipped Ye Old Style Inn of La Crosse 2-1 and then disposed of the Trane Ball Hawks of La Crosse 5-3 and Johnny's East Side Bar of Winona 10-4 to reach the championship game.

The Marauders of Minneapolis clobbered St. Stan's of Winona for the consolation title, after St. Stan's had been the victim of a no-hitter thrown by the pitcher from the Wildcat Inn earlier in the day.

Other first-round winners included the Moose Lodge of Eau Claire, Wis., and Cathedral of Winona, which knocked off the Oasis Bar of the Open League.

In the consolation semifinals, St. Stan's ousted the Oasis Cafe and the Marauders whipped the Oasis Bar 12-2.

LeJetz are scheduled to open here Tuesday

Winona High concluded its 1973 baseball season Friday by capturing second place in the state tournament behind Bemidji.

But, at least for most of the WHS players, the season is only half over.

The Hawks will just change uniforms, donning the colors of the Winona LeJetz, who are scheduled to open the 1973 season Tuesday with a 7:30 p.m. game against Caledonia at Gabrych Park.

The 1973 LeJetz will be coached by Terry Brecht, who last month was named to succeed Jon Kosidowski. Kosidowski had piloted the 1972 LeJetz to a 31-9 record and second place in the District One American Legion tournament behind Caledonia.

Brecht has been a pitcher for Winona State College the past two years, compiling a 9-1 record this season, and has one more year of eligibility remaining.

The LeJetz were originally scheduled to start the season June 4, but because Winona High — which produces a major share of the LeJetz players — advanced to the state tournament for the first time in the school's history, the start has been delayed until Tuesday.

Thus far, the LeJetz have had to cancel or postpone eight scheduled games.

They were to have met Rushford, La Crosse (in a doubleheader) and the Rochester Rockets in home games and Westby and Owatonna (in another doubleheader) in away games.

No make-up dates have as yet been arranged for.

Drazkowskis pace archers

BLACK RIVER FALLS, Wis. — Gals and juniors paced the Winona Archers here Sunday in another of the season's West Central Field Archery League shoots.

Shooters from Tomah, Wis., dominated the event with firsts in eight of the competition's 18 events.

Rich Drazkowski posted one of the first place finishes for the Winona Archers with a 192 score in the Cadet class.

Trempealeau, Wis., shooters came on to represent the area with firsts in the men's bowman class, where Norm Whillcock scored 354—Don Deeney, also of Trempealeau, was second with a 301 — and in the women's champion class where Grace Whillcock slammed a 343.

Winona's Steve Finch finished third in the men's bowman and Beth Fratzke was second in the women's champion competition.

The only other Winona title came in the women's expert class where Betty Drazkowsky's 192 was good enough for the win. Joanne Thurston, Trempealeau, was third.

Rod Hoesley and Terry Grzykowski finished second and third respectively for Winona in the Junior Boys champion class.

Roger Hjesland, Trempealeau, and neighbor Bob Nelson finished second and third respectively in the Class A freestyle, while Winona's Howard Tholemann was third in the Class B division.

Nearly 120 shooters were on hand Sunday for the Black River shoot. League archers will be returning to the Mississippi River valley for the next meet, with the Trempealeau shooters hosting the next WSFL shoot July 1.

61-year-old banker wins at Elkhart Lake

ELKHART LAKE, Wis. (AP) — A 61-year-old Kansas banker won the feature event without much challenge Sunday in the conclusion of the June Sprints weekend of sports car racing.

Jack Hinkle of Wichita, a former midjet driver, averaged 90.745 miles an hour in a Class A Lola Chevrolet and finished 2 minutes, 10 seconds ahead of the runner-up in the race for A, B and C sports racers.

Cliff Apel of Milwaukee finished second in the 100-mile, 25-lap affair, driving a McLaren Chevrolet.

Jerry Hansen of Minneapolis, having run second most of the time in a Class B Lola Ford, went to the pits for fuel late in the race.

Hinkle had won the feature at the Road America track two years ago.

Hansen won a preliminary race Sunday, averaging 100.28 m.p.h. in a trial for Formula A, B, C and Super V cars.

During the preliminary, Howard Jackson of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, escaped serious injury when his racer disintegrated against a rail after a tire blew out.

It was the weekend's worst crash.

La Crosse man wins Valley High tourney

HOKAH, Minn. — Don Nontelle of La Crosse, Wis., captured the second annual Valley High Open Golf Championship at the Valley High Golf Club near here Sunday.

Nontelle picked up the victory by going two-over par on the 6,600-yard, par 72 course.

He finished the 18-hole tournament with 35-37-38—110, just a stroke ahead of Mark Thompson of Rushford.

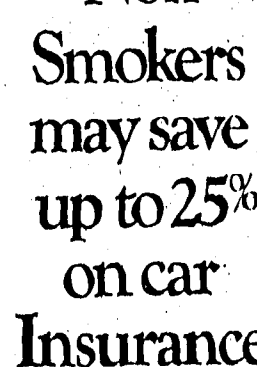

Thompson came in with 36-36-39—111.

Dave Cardin of Onalaska was two shots back with a 112, Gale Wenker of La Crosse had 113 and Steve Peterson of West Salem had 114.

Jack Richards of Sparta captured first-flight honors with a 119, while Winona's Jim Miller Jr. and Jim Tracy shared second-flight laurels with 123s.

Plainview nips Buddies, 3-2, in exhibition

PLAINVIEW, Minn. — Plainview's American Legion baseball team scored all of its runs in the first two innings here Sunday night and held on for a 3-2 exhibition victory over the Winona VFW Buddies.

Bob Smith started on the mound for the Buddies, but had difficulty finding the plate and gave up five walks before being relieved by Don Boynton. Boynton worked 2-1-3 scoreless innings and now has allowed just one earned run in 20-1-3 innings while striking out 39 batters.

The Buddies loaded the bases with nobody out in the top of the sixth, but Joe Anderson replaced Plainview starter Jeff Wedge at that point and got the host team out of the jam with no damage.

The first batter to face Anderson hit into a force play at the plate, another out was recorded when Anderson pitched out on an attempted squeeze play and the side was retired when John Anderson made a fine diving catch of a line drive off first base.

Smith went 2-for-4 at the plate with a double, while Bruce Norton was 1-for-2 and Steve Young was 1-for-1.

Coach Earl Bruggers' squad is scheduled for another exhibition game at Menomonie, Wis., tonight.

Shorty's blanks Oasis Bar 7-0

SLOW-PITCH SOFTBALL
Open League
East Side Bar 7-0 Oasis Cafe 2-4
Shorty's 5-1 Cochrane 3-3
Levee Bar 4-1 Steve's 0-6
St. Shorty's 4-2 Oasis Bar 0-4

Shorty's 4-2 J Lounge maintained its share of the lead in the Open Slow-Pitch League Friday night by blanking the Oasis Bar 7-0.

Dick Weinmann tossed the shutout while teammates Jon Kosowski, Charley Olsen and Dave Zimmerman each contributed a home run.

Johnny's East Side Bar remained in a two-way tie for first by beating the Oasis Cafe but no details were reported on the game.

The Levee Bar came from behind again to defeat Cochrane 8-7 as Mike McKinney belted two homers, and St. Stan's trampled Steve's Lounge 21-7 as Tom Wildenborg clobbered four homers and Dan Nyseth, Tom Wenzel and Mel Boone one each.

Lake City, 6-0, pounds Kellogg

Lake City pounded Kellogg 11-3 in Wabasha County Baseball League action over the weekend.

Mike Huettli's two-run homer and Tom Haase's solo blast paced unbeaten Lake City, now 6-0.

In other games, Zumbro Falls stopped Plainview 12-6, Zumbro topped Goodhue 8-2 and Wanamingo dumped Pine Island 9-3.

Witoka captures tournament title

STOCKTON, Minn. — Perry Henderson cracked a single and a three-run homer to drive in all four runs in Witoka's 4-0 triumph over Horner Home Improvement of Winona in the championship game of the Stockton Invitational Softball Tournament here Sunday.

Fred Huff tossed the shutout for Witoka while Lee Kanza suffered the loss. Gary Bauer ripped a triple and Mike Holubar had a double for Horner's.

In the battle for third place, Randall's of Winona knocked off the Cly-Mar Bowl of Lewiston, and Stockton whipped Minnesota City for the consolation trophy.

MARK TRAIL

Goodview fire investigation to continue

An investigation is scheduled to continue this evening into a Saturday morning fire that extensively damaged two houses in Goodview.

Damaged were houses at 3770 and 3780 8th Street, Goodview, owned by Frank Drazkowski and Richard Kuhlmann, respectively.

Chief Joseph Trochla of the Goodview Volunteer Fire Department said this morning he and department officials will visit the scene of the blaze tonight in an attempt to determine the fire's cause and estimate damage.

The fire apparently started in Drazkowski's garage between the two homes, destroying the garage and a 1971 hardtop in it. Much of the eastern portion of the Drazkowski house also was destroyed.

The Kuhlmann home received siding and roof damage to its west side in the blaze which was discovered about 9:30 a.m. Saturday.

No determination has been made whether the year-old Drazkowski home will have to be razed. The family is staying with relatives at 629 Main St.

Stock market drops sharply

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market dropped sharply today in moderately slow trading as the international monetary situation appeared to be worsening and confusion and disappointment over President Nixon's economic policy prevailed.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 9.86 points at 878.69. Declining issues on the New York Stock Exchange swamped advancing issues 892 to 240.

Analysts said the prediction by the Bank for International Settlements that the dollar crisis would continue for some time hurt Wall Street. The dollar hit record lows in some European markets and the price of gold surged.

Tropicana Products was the most active issue on the Big Board, down 1 at 22 1/2. Most of that action came in a 118,900 share block, traded at 20 1/2. The noon broad-based NYSE index of some 1,500 common stocks was down 0.57 points at 54.79.

On the American Stock Exchange, prices were also lower in slow trading. The noon price change index was down .05 points at 22.51. Champion Home Builders was the most active issue, down 3/4 at 4 1/4. A 74,900 share block was traded at 4 1/2, off 1/2.
